10 INJURED IN AREA, STATE'S DEATH TOLL 15

Three Mansfielders Hurt In Mishap South of City as Cars Collide.

6 TREATED AT BUCYRUS

Man Runs From Car Stalled on Tracks, Killed as Debris Falls on Him.

Ten persons were injured, none seriously, in traffic accidents in and near Mansfield over the week-end, while in Ohio at least 15 persons were dead as result of accidents and drownings.

W. W. Bowden, 24½ West Fourth street, circulation manager of The News-Journal, his son, Richard 27 and daughter, Alfaretta, 23, and Helen Krabacy, 30, of Cleveland, suffered injuries in a two-car collision at 1:15 p. m. Sunday on route 42, one mile south of the city.

Bowden and his son suffered face and nose lacerations, and his daughter a fractured nose, according to highway patrolmen. They were treated at General hospital and released. Miss Krabacy is confined to the hospital, according to the patrol.

Miss Krabacy was a passenger in a car driven by Rev. Julius M. Viglas, 33, of Cleveland, who was uninjured, according to officers. His car, traveling south, skidded across the highway into the path of the Bowden car, as he attempted to avoid striking the rear of another car, he told officers.

Miss Bowden, was driving the car in which her father and brother were riding, and was coming toward Mansfield.

Harold Pollock, 21, of R. D. 1, Bucyrus, is in Bucyrus City hospital with a fractured right ankle, suffered Sunday afternoon when his motorcycle struck the rear of a car on route 30 in Bucyrus as it was turning into a gasoline station. Clifford Staiger, 14, of Oceola, who was riding with Pollock, was uninjured, it was reported.

Five members of an Elkhart, Ind. family were treated at the Bucyrus hospital Saturday for injuries received in a collision at the intersection of West Mansfield and Spring streets.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor, who suffered leg bruises, Paul, 9, a fractured right arm, and Murley Ann, 7, and Elizabeth May, 5, severe bruises. Their car collided with one driven by Arthur Gardner of Winchester, who escaped injuries.

Death of a Cleveland motorist under the flying wreckage of his car, which stalled in front of an onrushing passenger train, added a grim quirk to Ohio's week-end toll.

Joseph Smolinski, jr., 32, the motorist, abandoned his stalled car at Amherst and fled afoot as a New York Central train bore down on him. The train hurled the machine approximately 300 feet, pinning Smolinski beneath and killing him.

260 Children on Liner Arrive in New York Harbor

NEW YORK —(AP)— Two hundred sixty British child war refugees, a number of them babies in arms, arrived today on the British liner Samaria—the second such refugee ship to reach New York within 24 hours—as a nation-wide campaign to provide haven for such children was speeded up.

Formation of "the national child refugee committee," to organize local committees over the country and co-ordinate the activities of various groups already active, was announced shortly before the ship's arrival.

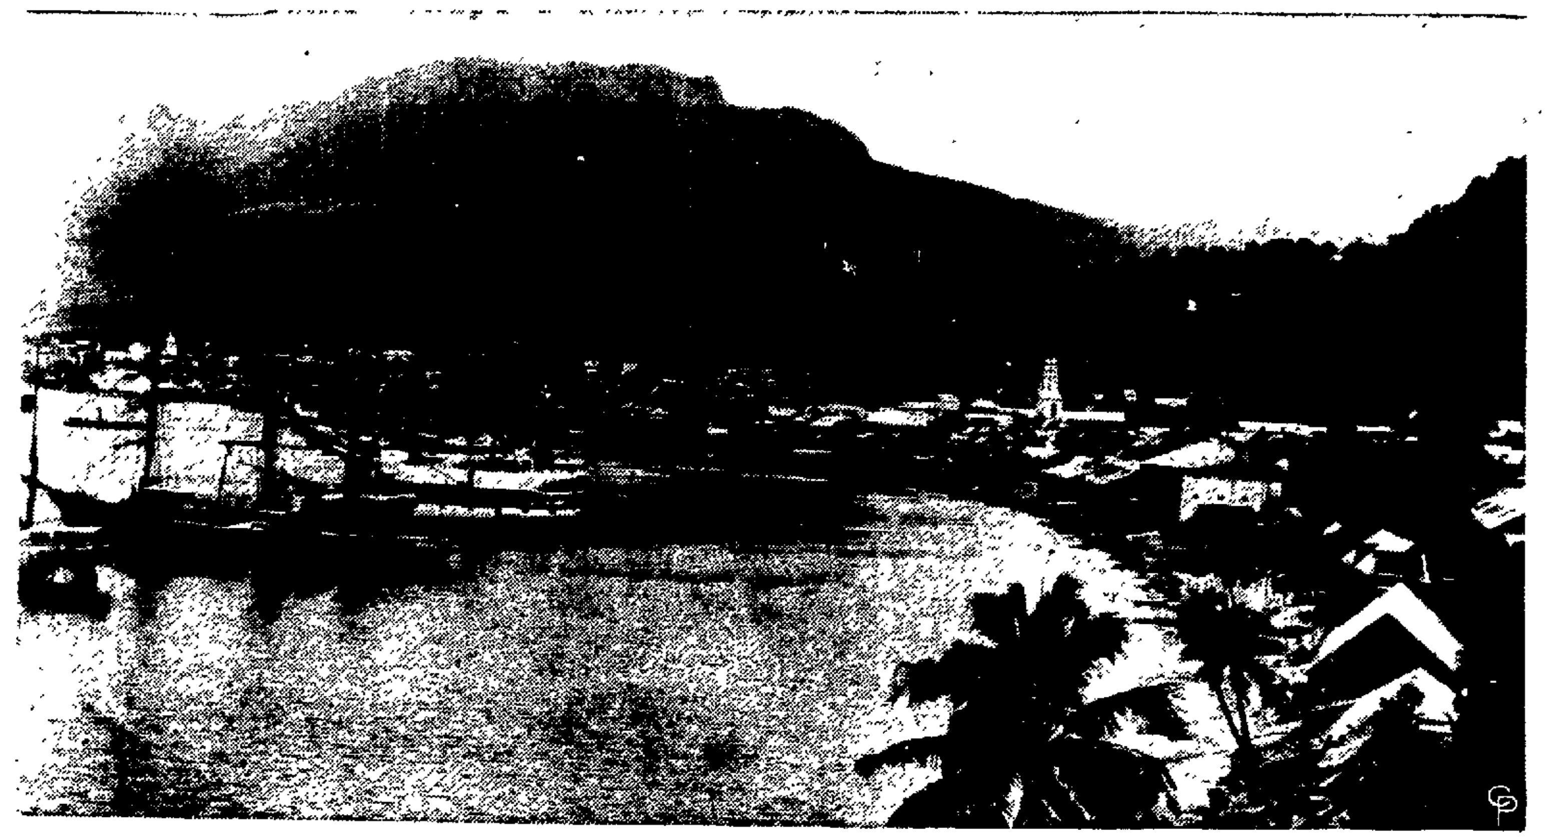
The children, ranging in age from a few weeks to 12, were among about 1,000 passengers on the Cunard-White Star liner. They followed 71 youngsters who arrived yesterday on the British liner Scythia.

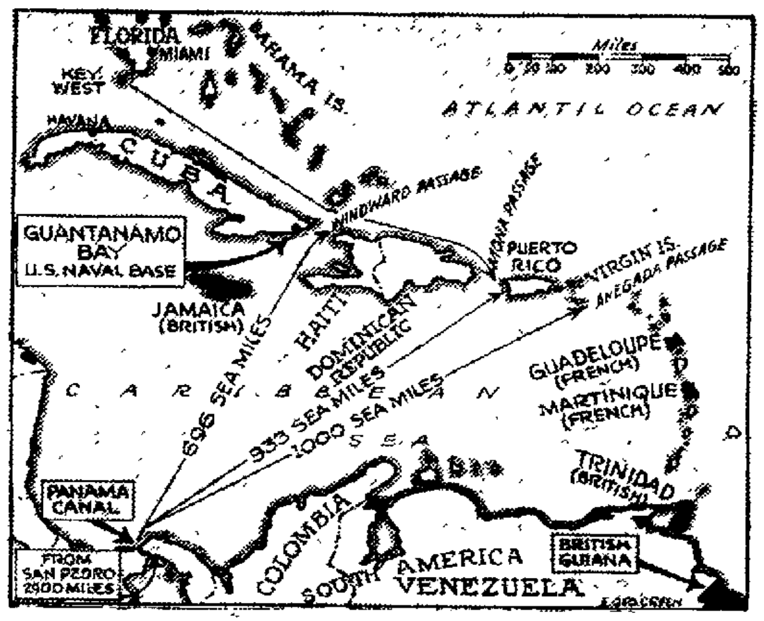
REPORT FLIGHT

Germans Say British Ships Flee From Tangier.

NEW YORK —(AP)—A report on the wave-length of the German radio, heard by CBS, said today that all British ships at Tangier, Morocco, "have fled into the open sea." The former internationalized zone of Tangier was taken over by Spain during the German invasion of France.

Martinique---War Danger Spot In Western Hemisphere





Here is a view of the town and harbor of St. Pierre, on the French island of Martinique, in the Caribbean sea, 1,160 miles from the Panama Canal. Echoes of the European war resounded loud in the Western Hemisphere with report that British cruisers had blockaded the island to prevent a shipment of American-made warplanes from falling into Nazi hands. The French aircraft carrier Bearn was reported in the harbor. The map shows the location of Martinique in relation to the Panama Canal and other Caribbean islands.

FOURTH STREET PAVING STARTED

Workmen Begin at Diamond to Lay New Surface; Detour Arrangements Set Up.

Barriers erected on North Diamond and North Main streets today shunted traffic from the intervening block on Fourth street where 100 WPA workers began tearing up the pavement west of the Diamond street intersection.

Work of removing the old brick signaled the beginning of a project which will place new pavement on Fourth street from Diamond street west to the city limits.

Highway department officials have announced that between four and five months will be required to complete the work which has been undertaken as a joint city-WPA-state highway enterprise.

As rapidly as the old surface is removed it will be replaced by a brick center section with concrete aprons on both sides. Tearing up the old pavement will use virtually all men now eligible for work on the WPA lists.

Paving of the street will be done by the Mansfield Asphalt paving company under contract with the state highway department.

WPA construction officials said today that additional equipment was expected from Columbus to facilitate the work and that the street will be closed a block at a time as construction progresses through the downtown area.

STRIKE CALLED

Work on Navy Boilers Halted at Barberton Plant.

BARBERTON —(AP)— A strike halted work today at the Babcock & Wilcox Co., manufacturer of boilers for the U. S. navy's battle fleet.

The AFL federal labor union called the strike which Local Secretary Walter J. Mason said affected 90 per cent of the plant's 2,000 employes.

Five hundred pickets were on the scene and no workers tried to enter. Capt. B. M. Bruce and his staff of navy inspectors were permitted unhampered passage as were maintenance employes. The strikers were orderly.

Mason said the union demands pay increases and extension of paid vacations to workers with one year employment.

B. G. McIntire, plant personnel manager, declined to discuss the situation.

FALSE ALARM

Firemen Called to Church, Find Only Rubbish Burning.

Firemen were called to the First Congregational church shortly after noon today when smoke was seen coming from the church. However the cause was from a smoking furnace where the caretaker had been burning paper.

No damage was done, according to C. A. Heffelfinger, custodian of the church.

It was reported the majority of the troops were Senegalese or French soldiers. The destination of the troopships was not disclosed.

ORDER DEFIED

Strike Sympathizers Block Entrance to Plant.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Striking CIO die casting workers, defying a court order against mass picketing, today blocked an entrance to the Precision Die Casting company plant with an overturned automobile. Another machine was parked nearby, its brakes locked.

Suburban Lakewood police dispersed massed pickets who circled the overturned car, wearing papier mache "crash helmets." After the machines were towed away, one of a dozen automobiles entering the premises was stoned. One man was arrested, charged with disorderly conduct.

The plant was scheduled to resume operations today after a week's vacation shutdown.

Farley Shares Roosevelt's Secret on Third Term Plan

WASHINGTON— President Roosevelt shared with James A. Farley today the secret of his third term intentions—but neither would reveal the chief executive's answer to the most baffling political question in a decade.

The rest of the nation may be let in on the solution to the third term puzzle when — and if — the Democratic national convention insists on drafting Mr. Roosevelt.

Political analysts suggested that since Mr. Roosevelt had let the third term movement go along until a week before the convention without lifting a finger either to check or increase its momentum he would be unlikely to turn down renomination if it were offered in the form of a call to service during a time of international crisis and efforts to plug gaps in America's defenses.

Lending emphasis to predictions of some Democratic leaders that

FAKE DISTRESS SIGNAL PROBED

Nation Spends Panicky Day Until Told Destroyer Safe in Port.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Two federal agencies today investigated a false SOS that the United States destroyer Barry had been "hit by a German submarine" off the coast of Spain.

The report gave this country a panicky Sunday afternoon while the Barry lay safely at anchor at Bilboa, Spain.

The messsage was picked up by Mackay Radio in New York shortly before 2 p. m. and within a few minutes was relayed into millions of American homes over nation-wide radio hook-ups.

It had been signed with the call letters "NUGP," which belong to no ship or station; it was not transmitted on the 600-meter channel on which all SOS messages are sent; the position given was 750 miles east of the Mahamas, on this side of the Atlantic, and nowhere near Spain; the message was not repeated as all SOS messages are and it was sent by an alternating current, continuous wave type of transmitter, used by shore stations and amateurs whereas most ships use a direct current type of transmitter.

By 3:30 p. m., the navy announced:

"The navy has received a communication directly from the Barry. It is not in distress and is safely at anchor in neutral waters.

In Berlin, authorized German quarters said that "the fake message appears to be the final meneuver on the part of the British to cause a rupture between Germany and the United States.

The federal bureau of investigation and the federal communications commission immediately sought to determine the origin of the SOS which said:

"Sinking slowly, hit by German submarine; water in hold; can last three hours."

The Barry is one of four destroyers which, with the Trenton, comprises the United States European squadron consigned to neutral waters to protect American interests. Of 1,190 tons, it carries a normal complement of 122 men, and is armed with four 4-inch, 50 calibre guns. It left New York Jan. 20 carrying about 100 officers and men.

BERLIN SAYS MARTINIQUE IN BLOCKADE

French Naval Forces in West Indies Reported Waiting British Ultimatum.

SUBMARINES ACTIVE

Germans Claim 21,500 Tons of Enemy Ships Sunk By U-Boats.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—The official German news agency said today that the British were blockading the French island of Martinique in the West Indies and that the French naval forces there were preparing for a British ultimatum.

The news agency, D. N. B., circulated the report under a Geneva date and said it emanated from Vichy, the French capital.

Martinique is one of the easternmost of the Leeward islands, 300 miles north of the South American coast. It had been reported from Washington that five United States destroyers had gone there to examine the situation.

DNB said, "the first consequence of the blockade was the severance of communications with the mainland."

A communique from fuehrer's headquarters today said that German submarines had sunk 21,500 tons of "enemy" merchant shipping including the armed British freighter San Fernando, of 13,000 tons, off the Spanish coast.

It said that German airplanes had bombed many points in Britain including the rail center at Brighton, coastal batteries on the Isle of Wight, harbor works and barracks at Falmouth, armament work at Middlesborough and Newcastle.

In attacks on the south coast of England, two merchant ships and one transport were sunk and other ships severely damaged, the communique said. It said 14 British planes had been shot down and that three German

'FINAL TRIP'

Liner Washington Sails With 1,600 Passengers.

GALWAY, Ireland—(AP)—The U. S. liner Washington, making her second and "last trip" home from this west coast port with American refugees, was headed for New York today with 1,600 passengers.

After considerable delay in sailing because of lost luggage and the time required for the ship to take on fresh water, she finally weighed anchor at 6:45 a. m. yesterday but then was held up by fog in Galway bay and did not leave Irish waters until 3 p. m. (9 a. m., EST).

STRUCK IN EYE

Bucyrus Youth Hurt By Flying Windshield Glass.

BUCYRUS — John W. Bechtol 20, of Bucyrus, in City hospital here, today faced the loss of an eye, as result of an accident early Sunday morning on route 19, three miles north of here.

Young Bechtol suffered a lacerated eyeball when a piece of glass from the windshield of his car, broken by a tomato thrown from a passing car, struck him in the eye.

Hospital attendants said today it would probably be necessary to remove the injured eye. Three boys were riding in the passing car, it was reported.

Employ Silent Glide Bombing Attack Method

Flights Regarded as Mere Foretaste Of Aerial Blitzkrieg Yet To Come; British Reply With Scattered Air Offense

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—There was an unconfirmed report tonight that Eamon De Valera, prime minister of Eire, would come to London this week in connection with Britain's urgent desire to terminate, for defense needs, the deadlock between Eire and northern Ireland.

(By United Press)

LONDON—German bombers launched strong daylight raids on British coastal towns today, dropping more than 100 bombs and causing some casualties.

The air ministry and ministry of home security reported two German raiders were shot down in attacks on two coastal towns.

For the first time since the outbreak of the war one German bomber employed the silent gliding technique to arrive over a town before its presence became known. It had coasted for a long distance with its motor cut off.

The silent raider bombed a southwest town, dropping a bomb on the main shopping street and causing a number of casualties.

The communique reported a few casualties and some damage in a western British town and no casualties and little damage at an east coast town which was raided

German planes were raiding England, Wales and Scotland day and night. Five persons were killed in southwestern England, two in southern England and three in northeastern England, and numerous persons were wounded in raids between dawn yesterday and dawn today. At least nine German planes were shot down, it was believed, and several more were damaged. One British plane was lost.

Though the raids were taking a severe toll of life, and German bombers were now being escorted by Messerschmidt fighter planes, the belief generally was that they were only a foretaste of what would come any day — raids by hundreds of planes on military objectives of all sorts and perhaps on cities to prepare for an attempt to land troops by sea and air.

It was held that the present raids were training ones, intended to familiarize pilots with British defenses.

British planes, in turn, bombed German ship yards at Bremen and Kiel, the entrance to the Kiel canal, an arms depot at Emden, airdromes at Evreux, northern France; Knocke, Belgium, and Ypenburg, Holland; barges at Zwolle, Holland; a canal at Katwijk, Holland, and seaplane bases on Nordeney and Hornum islands, Germany. Navy planes dive bombed German fuel stocks at Bergen, Norway, and started big fires.

The submarine Snapper, the admiralty reported, attacked two German ship convoys and, despite their escort of armed trawlers, torpedoed five ships.

Berlin Sees Lull Before Storm.

BLOCKADE: Italy Shut Off From Afica By Enemy Ships

By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)

Rome's admission that Abyssinia, Eritrea, and Somaliland henceforth must depend on Japan for supplies is the first Italian acknowledgment of the tightening power of the British blockade. These three parts of Italy's new empire are separated from Libya by the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, which means they cannot be supplied by transport from Italy across the Mediterranean to Libyan ports and then overland.

Under peace time conditions Abyssinia, Eritrea, and Somaliland had waterway connections with the homeland by way of the Suez canal. That outlet is now closed.

The strait of Gibraltar also is barred to Italian ships so that it is impossible for Italy to communicate with her African east coast colonies by sending vessels westward through the Mediterranean to circle the African coast via the Cape of Good Hope.

Shipments of goods from the western hemisphere to the three isolated parts of Mussolini's empire would have to move across the Atlantic and pass the Cape of Good Hope. British control of the cape waters, however, is too rigorous to allow any chance of success for such an undertaking.

The only chance Italy has of maintaining supplies for her severed possessions is to try to engage shipping to cross the Indian ocean to Somaliland.

Rome reports that Japan might serve as a base for such operations, however, are more optimistic than existing conditions would seem to allow. Japan has no de-

DICTATOR: Petain Expected To Become 'Chief Of State'

GENEVA — (AP) — The censored press of unoccupied France carried reports today that Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's government was "only transitory" and would make way for a new regime with Petain as "chief of state" like Generalissimo Francisco Franco in Spain

A dispatch from Vichy to Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble forecast the resignation of French President Albert LeBrun and his replacement by Petain who, it said, would "only accept the title of executive power."

A triumvirate of former Premier Pierre Laval, Gen. Maxime Weygand and Adrien Marquet, former minister of labor and mayor of Bordeaux, would dominate the government under Petain's titular direction, this report said.

Travelers from portions of the country unoccupied by German troops describe the French public and many of its republican leaders as "dazed by defeat" and scarcely interested in the proceedings at Vichy.

A dispatch from Vichy said the French press described the new constitution to be drafted for France as "corporative," a term Fascists apply to the Italian gov-

Willkie Meets Republican Congressional Leaders

HOPES TO WIN FULL SUPPORT OF OLD FOES

Confers With Running-Mate McNary on Campaign Manager.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Wendell L. Willkie flies to Washington today to meet congressional leaders of the Republican party which surprised itself and the nation last month by nominating him for president.

Willkie will confer with Sen. Charles L. McNary (R., Ore.), the vice presidential nominee, and by evening may be able to announce appointment of a campaign manager and selection of a chairman of the Republican national committee.

In the Willard hotel at 7:30 p. m., he will dine with Republican members of the house and senate.

It has been reported that Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.), and Samuel Pryor, Connecticut Republican national committeeman, were under consideration as campaign manager. Willkie wants to confer with McNary, whom he has never met, before committing himself.

Today in Washington he will meet some of his most active and effective pre-convention opponents. It is vital to the Willkie campaign that the congressional Republicans, including McNary, who were against his candidacy, not only be enticed aboard the campaign band wagon but that they be infused with the kind of do-and-die enthusiasm which is necessary to win hard fought political campaigns.

Coolness of congressional Republicans and Willkie's big business background are the immediate weak spots in Willkie's campaign.

His backers hope to overcome both and finally to capitalize on the fact that Willkie is a "man who has met the payroll" and made good in the most competitive square mile in the business world, the lower tip of Manhattan island.

The candidate's plans are subject to change, but he expects to remain overnight in Washington and tomorrow to fly to Colorado for a two or three-week vacation. From some mountain resort in that state he will proceed around Aug. 1 to Elwood, Ind., where he will deliver his formal speech of acceptance from the steps of the local high school where he started on the career that led to the World war overseas, to Akron, O., as a practicing attorney and, finally, to New York.

Youth Arrested After Chase in Fireworks Fraud

An Ashland youth who allegedly obtained fireworks valued at $246 last week by representing himself as a fireworks dealer was held to the Richland county grand jury today under $1,000 bond.

The youth, Jerry Wilt, 21, R. D. 1, Ashland, was arrested Saturday night in Cambridge by Sheriff E. P. Long who had sought him for several days. He pleaded innocent today when arraigned in municipal court.

D. C. Donley, Mansfield fireworks salesman, filed the complaint against Wilt after failing to collect for the fireworks. Wilt was charged with intent to defraud.

Donley told authorities Wilt represented himself as a dealer, operating stands in Delaware and Marion. Wilt was taken to the county jail when he was unable to provide bond.

Up and Down THE STREET

Jane Wilson, Mansfield songbird with the Fred Waring radio show, made her first visit home in 14 months when she arrived Saturday afternoon and left Sunday night. She was homesick to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson, 35 Blymyer avenue, and raced home between broadcasts. She still works with the trio of girls and the chorus, does one solo a week on the air and a solo twice nightly for the Waring show at the Vanderbilt theater in New York City. She sings "Alice Blue Gown" in the same theater in which it was first sung when "Irene" premiered at that theater years ago. She will be in New York for at least another year, for the Waring show has re-signed with his sponsor for another year.

Both fun and work are in store for two Mansfield boys, LaMar Kenneth Baxter, jr., 612 Coleman road, and Robert Gardner, 599 Park avenue west. They are among 290 youngsters enrolled in the summer woodcraft camp at Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind. In addition to the regular camp program the boys will make a canoe trip down the Tippecanoe river and a trip to the Indian dunes on Lake Michigan. Over 700 boys from 37 states, the District of Columbia and five foreign countries are enrolled at the camp.

When Richard Stander, 475 Marion avenue, wrote a treatise for a degree at Ohio State university recently, he also compiled a complete story of the development of Richland county's road system for the county highway department. Young Stander, who plans to take up highway engineering, spent several weeks going through county road records and questioning highway officials to get his information. County Engineer Howard Sword received a gift copy of the treatise today. It was compiled in book form and contains 50 pages and a number of maps and graphs.

If you think the youngsters of Mansfield don't have influence around city hall, you'll revise your opinion after a talk with Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton. City council passed an ordinance May 21 ordering the licensing of all bicycles and black and white tags were ordered, to be sold at 25 cents each and to be valid for the life of the vehicle. The new tags hadn't come in yet this morning but the youngsters had. They want those tags. So Crafton is following up his order to the manufacturer with a request to "please rush."

DIES SUNDAY

John Hering, 50, Stricken at Hospital Here.

John Hering, 50, of Butler, a resident of Richland county since 1925, died Sunday evening at General hospital following a brief illness. He was born in New York City, March 14, 1890.

Mr. Hering, who had served in both the United States Army and Navy, was employed as an inspector at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company until ill health forced his retirement last fall.

Surviving are his widow, Sylvia May Kiner Hering; his mother, Mrs. Anna M. Hering of Mansfield, and four sisters, Mrs. J. S. Wainright of Mansfield; Mrs. Horace Sanford of Westfield, N. J.; Mrs. Margaret Graves of Herkimer, N. Y.; and Mrs. Anna H. Smith of Patchogue, N. Y.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. Glenn Lewis of the Grace Episcopal church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

SEEK CLUES IN AKRON SLAYING

Relatives of Doctor Quizzed In Attempt to Discover Killer's Identity.

(By International News Service)

AKRON—Failing in their efforts to learn the reason for the murder of Dr. Malcolm Dean Miller through questioning his wife and former secretary, Mrs. Ruby Miller, 34, police today questioned other relatives in their search for clews.

Mrs. Miller, who was in her husband's office when a swarthy, mustached gunman threatened to shoot the 65-year-old women's specialist, but fled before the fatal shots were fired, left People's hospital where she had been taken with her dead husband.

Detective Inspector Verne E. Cross, who has been in charge of the investigation since the Friday night slaying, said he also planned to again question Mrs. Grace Carver, sister-in-law of Mrs. Miller, who was Dr. Miller's office attendant. She was on vacation in Tennessee with her husband when the slaying occurred.

Mrs. Miller, the doctor's second wife, was able to give Cross a complete description of the killer, but little of her account helped with progress in the investigation, Cross said.

He revealed that Dr. Miller had drawn a heavy frame revolver from his desk and cocked it before he fell to the floor with four bullets in his body. It was recalled that the doctor was firearms collector and Cross said he probably obtained the gun in that manner.

COURT 'MELTS' ICE INJUNCTION

Dissolves Injunction Order, Sends Case Back For Settlement.

An injunction obtained last week by George C. Estes to enable him to retain the use of an ice house and storage room at Fifth and Mulberry streets had been dissolved today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, who remanded the dispute to municipal court for settlement.

Motion to dissolve the order was filed by Mrs. Zona Laird, Mansfield, owner of the property.

Estes had obtained the temporary injunction against August Schultz, Mansfield, municipal court bailiff, and Mrs. Laird, contending that Mrs. Laird misrepresented the case against him in obtaining a decree of forcible detention.

Estes appealed to common pleas court from a decision against him in municipal court.

DUTCH CREW FILE ATTACHMENTS AGAINST SHIP FOR BACK WAGES

SANDUSKY—(INS)—Seventeen attachment actions were on file today against the Prins Willem II, 2,500-ton Dutch freighter, while national guardsmen maintained a 24-hour guard over the vessel.

Meanwhile, immigration authorities studied the arrest of 20 members of the crew, who sought the attachments to recover $1,900 in wage claims. The crew was arrested last Friday on charges of desertion when Capt. C. A. Vander Eyck told Sheriff William Souter they had threatened the ship's officers with death.

Alvin F. Weichel, attorney for the crew, said the attachment actions would prevent the sheriff from turning the Prins Willem over to federal authorities, but Souter said there was some doubt whether the Ohio law applies.

Captain Vander Eyck said the Dutch seamen are under mobilization "by royal decree." Several of the crew, however, admitted to Souter that they were Germans.

The Prins Willem tied up here during the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands when the crew feared internment at Montreal, where the vessel was sailing with a load of coal.

WAY BEHIND

Blame Water Collection Delay on Number Changes.

With only $3,000 of a total $28,000 water and sewer rental charge for the east half of the city collected to date, city water department officials otday were blaming the changes in house numbering for the delay.

F. E. Lingafelter, clerk, described as "practically nothing" the returns on the collection period which opened July 1 and closes next Monday.

Statements were addressed to old house numbers, Lingafelter explained, since the new addresses do not become official until August.

"It is possible that a number of statements have not been received at the correct address," Lingafelter said.

To correct any errors, the superintendent urged that persons in the east half of the city who had not received their water and sewer bills notify the department at once so duplicate statements can be mailed.

EX-POLICEMAN ROBBED OF $39

Ralph Hildebrand Says Money Taken From Home.

Ralph Hildebrand, 23 East Second street, today reported to police the theft of $39 from his home yesterday.

A former member of the police department, Hildebrand told police the money, in bills and coin, was taken from his wife's purse which had been left in a bedroom while Mrs. Hildebrand was working in the kitchen.

He said there was no evidence of anyone having broken into the house when he made a check of all doors and windows after the theft had been discovered.

Japanese Army Resents Gendarme Arrest

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN RELEASED AFTER APOLOGY

Marine Clean-up at Shanghai Threatens to Become 'Incident.'

By ROBERT BELLAIRE

SHANGHAI—(UP)—Japanese army men angrily threatened today to make a serious incident of the arrest by United State marines of 16 Japanese plain clothes men who entered their defense sector under arms yesterday in violation of a long-standing agreement.

Marine authorities had released the Japanese after, they said, a formal apology was made to Col. DeWitt Peck, marine commander. But today a Japanese army spokesman denied that any apology had been made.

He charged that the marines had assaulted and injured three or four of the Japanese and continued,

"They were treated like criminals sentenced to death. . . . It was an unfriendly act and a grave insult to the Japanese army. . . . We must conclude that the marines have abandoned their responsibility as a joint defense force at Shanghai. . . . We believe the case will acquire a serious nature in future."

Japanese army authorities, the spokesman said, had decided to make a strong protest and to reserve the right to make "demands" on the marines.

Col. Peck said that Maj. Gen. Miura, commanding Japanese gendarmes, made the apology and that he has a stenographic record of it. He said that Gen. Miura had advised him that the incident was closed.

Yesterday was the third anniversary of the outbreak of the Chinese-Japanese war. Defense precautions were taken throughout the international settlement and armored cars patroled the streets.

Gen. Juzo Nishio, Japanese troop commander, led a parade of a dozen or more automobiles through the defense sectors of other nations. Japanese armed with sub-machine guns surrounded the open touring car in which Nishio rode. The Japanese cars went at high speed, forcing all traffic to curb stones. Japanese machine gunners pointed their weapons at civilians.

Nishio went to the Park hotel, one of the highest buildings in the city, and from there had a look over Shanghai.

Meantime American marines began picking up Japanese plain clothes men whom they detected in groups of two and three in their sector.

The army spokesman admitted that the Japanese were wrong in not notifying the marines in advance that they intended to post gendarmes in the marine defense sector. This was an oversight, the spokesman said.

55, FOUND DEAD

Berea Man Stricken in Sleep at Son-in-Law's Home.

MILLERSBURG — Arthur J. Deex, about 55, was found dead in bed at the farm home of his son-in-law, Robert Meier, southwest of here, yesterday morning.

Coroner W. B. Wild said death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Deex and his son, Arthur, jr., 9, had been spending the summer at the Meier home. The son found his father dead when he went to his room yesterday morning.

The body was sent to Berea for burial. In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Meier, and his son, Mr. Deex is survived by his widow and another daughter.

Young men from 18 to 31 may apply during the two-day period at the postoffice or at any time at the postoffice building in Sandusky. A number of trades are open to men in the navy, enlistment officers said.

SCREEN SLASHED

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Police puzzled today over the motives of vandals who slashed five holes in a $400 motion picture screen at the neighborhood Hollywood theater. John Clark, janitor, found a butcher knife near the damaged screen when he drew the curtain for the Sunday afternoon show.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I'd like to have been present at the premiere of "Hold Onto Your Hats" when Al Jolson sang his torch song to Ruby Keeler. It's a ballad called "Don't Let It Get You Down," and I hear Al put so much heartache into it he had Ruby and the audience in tears. . . . When I hear Joe Louis talk, I always expect Madame Queen to walk in and say something. . . . I'm always tempted to see how close I can come to a Park avenue pigeon before he flies away.

I imagine the easiest way for a lonesome out-of-towner to get into friendly conversation with a stranger on a bus is to just mention the Brooklyn Dodgers.

I watched fascinated the other night in the Stork club while a lady fan rushed up to Monty Woolley to tell him how much she enjoyed his emoting. He couldn't have been more polite. But I always wonder what an actor is supposed to say when an admirer gushes, "I saw you in 'The Man Who Came to Dinner.'" All I can think of is, "Oh, did you?"

* * *

Nothing is sillier to me than a man's fashion show, unless it's the lads who model the new drapes . . . Whenever I see sky-writing aviators I always wish they'd cut loose and write somethink witty. The summer dining room in Hampshire house is the prettiest eating place in town.

It's hard to believe, but a very sober movie executive assured me the other night that Clark Gable has a clause in his contract which automatically gives him a three-week vacation whenever ducks are sighted in California or neighboring states. . . .

I have a wonderful new ice cream combination — banana, pistachio and chocolate, with a dash of chocolate sauce. Twenty One does it best—if under slight protest.

* * *

Those visiting firemen who sit at ringside tables and cut up just so they can tell the folks back home how they slapped or pinched a glamour girl in the floor show, ought to stay home, if you ask me—they shouldn't be allowed off the farm. . . . The Biltmore Roof is very pleasant these evenings, especially now that they've got Alvino Rey's orchestra and the singing King Sisters.

Paulette Goddard certainly has the right kind of a chassis for shorts. . . . It was amazing that a match like the Tony Galento-Maxie Baer contest, if I may exaggerate a little, could draw such a crowd of paying customers, when everyone apparently knew that no actual boxing would take place. I guess it drew because the casting was so good: The hero, big, handsome Maxie, versus the villain, ugly, tubby, little Tony.

* * *

Window shopping on Fifth Avenue is a wonderful pastime on a warm summer evening. And it's so safe—no matter how much you admire any of the divine trifles, the doors of the shop are locked. . . . Those little camera-sized radios are so fascinating you have the impulse to take them everywhere, including the night clubs, so you can tune in on "Information Please." . . . I've never been bitten by the collecting bug. Never wanted to collect anything—except maybe twenty-dollar bills.

I can't understand those "perfect week-ends" at the shore—which usually mean you manage to get through the traffic going there by sheer strength of expectation, but coming back! The Sunday night traffic flanks you, hems you in, cuts you off, and reduces you to a state of gibberish nerves. I prefer the quiet city, where the silence of the summer week-end is broken only by the occasional honk of the horn on a lonely taxi.

* * *

I wonder how titles like "He Stayed For Breakfast" get by the eagle eyes of the prim Hays office. . . . It's amazing to me how Guy Lombardo stays popular with millions of fans despite the popularity of swing. Maybe it's because of the popularity of swing.

It's very disconcerting, I think, to talk to some one who is wearing dark glasses. . . . I am a pushover for a music box, whether it's concealed in a powder box, a handbag or a cigaret jar.

Wonder whatever became of tea dancing? . . . I've really never seen a sailor rowing in Central park, or a plumber who forgot his tools. . . . When I look at the Skyline bar in Coq Rouge I yearn for that kind of a view from my window. . . . I love ping pong—to play, not to watch. It gives me a stiff neck to watch two experts volleying.

* * *

I can never choose a piece of French pastry from a large assortment without a three-minute study of shapes and an inquiry into the ingredients. . . . Men wearing black and white shoes remind me of Lindy's. . . . I think Hal Saunders' orchestra at the St. Regis is one of the most promising new bands in many a moon.

Now and then I like a Saturday afternoon at the Museum of Modern Art. . . . I think it's funny the way some of the chorines and show girls in the Broadway productions get fined if they get sun tanned, or if they switch from blond to brunett without asking the producer's permission. It's like being in a convent school, in a way. Only in a way.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Tom Brown's School Days." Screenplay by Walter Ferris, Frank Cavett, Gene Towne, Graham Baker. Directed by Robert Stevenson. Principals: Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lydon, Josephine Hutchinson, Billy Halop, Polly Moran, Hughie Green, Ernest Cossart, Alec Craig, Gale Storm, Ian Fulton.

* * * * *

There's an appealing Mr. Chips-ish quality to this version of Thomas Hughes' widely read novel of English school life in the 1840's.

The story is of Dr. Thomas Arnold's struggle to elevate the then low standards prevalent in the schools—to replace lying and cheating with the honor system and a sense of responsibility. It is an interesting yarn, well told and well acted by Sir Cedric (as Arnold) and a group of boys who are mostly American but serve convincingly enough as little Britons.

The boys of Rugby are wild ones when Dr. Arnold takes over, firmly stressing his intenation to give Rugby a new and worthy character. Tom Brown (Lydon, a New Yorker with an engagingly homely face and a telling sincerity of performance) becomes the focal point in the struggle. A courageous lad, he challenges the reign of the school bully (Halop, ex-Dead End Kid) and is solidly backed by the better element, led by East (Bartholomew), until it appears that Tom has violated a fundamental tenet by "telling tales." Tom carries through his period of disgrace and finally justifies Arnold's faith.

It's an interesting projection of school life—the Rugby customs, the "bullying" (or hazing, as we here call it) the inter-class rivalries.

Polly Moran, as the inn-keeper who deals in Murphies (roasted potatoes), makes a welcome return to pictures.

* * *

"Untamed." Ray Milland, Patricia Morrison, Akim Tamiroff.

* * *

Romance and melodrama in the great north country, adding a wild snowstorm to Paramount's catalogue of Technicolor catastrophies (latest of which was in "Typhoon"). Adapted from Sinclair Lewis's "Mantrap," last filmed with Clara Bow, "Untamed" is the story of the waif (Morrison) adopted and married by the older, unromantic Easter (Tamiroff) and saved by the handsome doctor (Milland) who has gone north to forget.

* * *

"Cross Country Romance." Gene Raymond, Wendy Barrie.

* * *

If this seems familiar while you're laughing at it, it's merely because the "It Happened One Night" formula has been put to use again. Raymond (back on the screen after a two-year absence) gives an amusing characterization of a young doctor whose trailer becomes the refuge of a bride-elect who has run out on her wedding. It's good comedy, played with considerable spirit, and suggests a re-teaming of the principals.

CHAPTER XX

Monty swallowed. This was all a trifle embarrassing to him.

"Why, ah, no. The fact is, sir, I had in mind something a bit more—ah, pretentious."

"How?" the clerk, a middle-aged man, looked quizzically at him.

"I say—I say that I need a choice presentation, a box, no doubt. It is for Miss—it is for one's, ah, sweetheart."

"Oh. Oh, I see! Well, sure, mister, here in the refrigerator case. Didn't know what you meant. You starting courtin' rather late tonight, though, ain't you? What's your name? You live around here? I'm Alex Downey, night pharmacist here for 13 years."

"Mr. Downey," Monty bowed slightly, and extended a hand. "I am Archibald Montgomery."

"Glad to know you, son," Mr. Downey declared, pumping. "Montgom— say! Why, of course! You're the professor! That made the big speech."

Downey obviously was a town character, a friendly inoffensive busybody with a good heart. Somehow Monty warmed to him. For one thing, he had called Monty "son." Therefore, perhaps his 29-year maturity wasn't so old looking after all! Monty took heart. In ten minutes they had become good acquaintances, and in half an hour they had swapped intimacies like old friends. It did Monty a deal of good to unburden himself wholly to some kindly soul.

"Well, good luck, son," Downey said, shaking hands and smiling when they parted finally at midnight. "You take her that'n. It's a good five-pound box, best made. You can't be shy at courtin', let me tell you. You press yore suit, as the feller says."

* * *

He grinned at his own joke, and Monty laughed happily. Monty had a new inner life of comradeship and fellowship. He actually whistled as he walked back toward his room, he who hadn't whistled in a long time. Press his suit, eh? Well, that was indubitably good advice. He'd just go to bed and start at it early tomorrow morning.

He slept well—devoid of worry and dreaming because his body was healthy and his mind was clean—and at 6 a. m. awakened with happiness in his soul. He got up immediately. If he were going to start "seeing" Rosemary Taylor socially, the sooner he started the better. Her trading post had no telephone. Anyway he had some business details to discuss with her —he remembered all at once how he had sort of created business in order to see her more, and chuckled a little at himself for it—so he would just take his car now and drive out there.

The drive to her place was 40 miles, and the early morning air was tingly cold. Monty sang all the songs he could remember, in sheer exhilaration.

"Down by the o-o-o-old mill
stre-e-e-eam,
Where I first met you-u-u-u!"

He was thrilled at his own voice. He hadn't done much singing in recent years, certainly not of popular songs. He realized that most of the ones he could recall were quite old now. He would have to develop some snatches at least of —what was it—fishes going over a dam, a man with a mandolin, with an odd jargon? Interesting commentary on American folk ways, um. No! He must not be pedantic. He must be—human. Friendly. One of the people who just loved life for its own sake, and tried to make it happy.

He was alternately lecturing himself and singing when he came in sight of the Summit Trading post. No other car was there, save for Rosemary's own which she kept parked under a great hovering oak. He rolled up near the porch. He would just honk and call her out brazenly this early morning as any—ah, youth, would do. She wouldn't want him to be too sedate, probably. Doubtless he had been too much that way.

He heard her come running through the store at the first sound of his horn. She threw the door bolt and looked out.

"Monty!" she cried. "Oh! Oh, lordy, Monty!"

Her face looked strained.

She wore a thin pink dressing gown over blue silken pajamas. Her hair was untidy. Her sleeves were rolled. But Monty's eye somehow took in these details in one glance, then centered on her robe's sagging pocket. He pointed to it.

"Oh I say—whatever are you running around with a pistol for, Rosemary?"

She smiled in hurried recollection.

"My goodness, Monty, I forgot! I—I almost shot a stork!"

"I beg pardon?"

"Sure! Come quickly and help, can't you? You must! I'm all alone with her, and Walpi Tom's squaw, Pola, is about to have a papoose!"

Before that day was over Dr. Archibald Montgomery was to wish that his doctorate had been earned in the field of medicine instead of the somewhat more theoretical realm of philosophy. That he had specialized in obstetrics rather than archaeology.

He sat there in his car now, however, just staring open-mouthed at Rosemary. He swallowed, hard, and echoed her announcement.

"Papoose?"

"Yes, Monty! A baby! I heard Pola moaning early this morning and because I thought she had gone with Walpi, I tip-toed down and got a gun. She was calling for help."

"Ah, yes. Yes indeed! But—where is her husband? Where is Walpi?"

Rosemary shook her head in exasperation.

"The Lord only knows! As near as I can make out, Monty, she said that Indian men feel they must have little or nothing to do with—with storks and all, and he knew a baby was coming so he went off to celebrate. Just wait till he comes back—I bet I have a thing or two to tell him!"

Monty had to smile at that. It was amusing to see Rosemary angry.

"For goodness sake, Monty, don't sit there like a dope! I need help. I couldn't even go for a doctor or anything because Pola was so frantic. She wouldn't let me leave her. And no customer has come yet, it's so early."

* * *

Monty left the car and entered the store with a definite sense of embarrassment. Whatever could he—a man—do? And still, he had promised himself not to be backward any more around Rosemary.

"You needn't blush, Monty," she chided him now. "What I need is help. Brains, I mean. You're awfully smart, a Ph. D. and all. Do you know—I mean—well, what is the exact procedure when—?" She looked up earnestly at him, excitement showing in her lovely eyes.

Monty just swallowed again, as he always did in moments of stress.

'Never Dreamed I'd Feel So Good Again.' Thanks Vendol

Mansfield Veteran of Foreign Wars Was Miserable from Gas, Sour Stomach, Dizziness, Spots Before Eyes, and Headaches, Due To Constipation. Tells of Relief.

"Vendol has been a blessing to me," says Mr. Clarence Marmet of 308 Wayne street, Mansfield, an enameler by trade. "Before taking it I was constipated all the time and my other sufferings due to it became so bad I thought I couldn't find relief. After eating I felt distressed with sour stomach, acid risings, 'heartburn', cramps, and the gas was so bad sometimes I could hardly get my breath. At other times I felt so dizzy everything seemed to be going around and little spots danced before my eyes, and my head would ache.

"From the relief I got by taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets, you might think they were made especially for me. They gave the nicest, easiest, most complete bowel actions, and soon all those awful feelings passed off. Really, I never dreamed I could feel so well again, and give all credit to Vendol, and advise anyone suffering like I did to get some without delay."

As the good news of remarkable relief brought by Vendol is made public by well known men and women residing right here at home, the demand for this famous medicine grows all over this city and nearby vicinity. Vendol acts to relieve many outward symptoms when brought on by constipation or need for a mild kidney diuretic and some of the very best citizens are taking it. When a lot of people take Vendol and like it, you can pretty well count on it that you will like it too. This has been going on a long time, so why not start taking Vendol today and see for yourself just what it will do.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists here and is especially recommended by Central Drug store, corner Main and 4th streets.

LOANS

WITHOUT ENDORSERS

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $4.46 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.46 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.26 each, or a total of only $105.04, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and ⅖% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds, no salary or wage assignment. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

Willkie Meets Republican Congressional Leaders

HOPES TO WIN FULL SUPPORT OF OLD FOES

Confers With Running-Mate McNary on Campaign Manager.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Wendell L. Willkie flies to Washington today to meet congressional leaders of the Republican party which surprised itself and the nation last month by nominating him for president.

Willkie will confer with Sen. Charles L. McNary (R., Ore.), the vice presidential nominee, and by evening may be able to announce appointment of a campaign manager and selection of a chairman of the Republican national committee.

In the Willard hotel at 7:30 p. m., he will dine with Republican members of the house and senate.

It has been reported that Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.), and Samuel Pryor, Connecticut Republican national committeeman, were under consideration as campaign manager. Willkie wants to confer with McNary, whom he has never met, before committing himself.

Today in Washington he will meet some of his most active and effective pre-convention opponents It is vital to the Willkie campaign that the congressional Republicans, including McNary, who were against his candidacy, not only be enticed aboard the campaign band wagon but that they be infused with the kind of do-and-die enthusiasm which is necessary to win hard fought political campaigns.

His backers hope to overcome both and finally to capitalize on the fact that Willkie is a "man who has met the payroll" and made good in the most competitive square mile in the business world, the lower tip of Manhattan island.

The candidate's plans are subject to change, but he expects to remain overnight in Washington and tomorrow to fly to Colorado for a two or three-week vacation. From some mountain resort in that state he will proceed around Aug. 1 to Elwood, Ind., where he will deliver his formal speech of acceptance from the steps of the local high school where he started on the career that led to the World war overseas, to Akron, O., as a practicing attorney and, finally, to New York.

Youth Arrested After Chase in Fireworks Fraud

An Ashland youth who allegedly obtained fireworks valued at $246 last week by representing himself as a fireworks dealer was held to the Richland county grand jury today under $1,000 bond.

The youth, Jerry Wilt, 21, R. D. 1, Ashland, was arrested Saturday night in Cambridge by Sheriff E. P. Long who had sought him for several days. He pleaded innocent today when arraigned in municipal court.

D. C. Donley, Mansfield fireworks salesman, filed the complaint against Wilt after failing to collect for the fireworks. Wilt was charged with intent to defraud.

Donley told authorities Wilt represented himself as a dealer, operating stands in Delaware and Marion. Wilt was taken to the county jail when he was unable to provide bond.

Up and Down THE STREET

Jane Wilson, Mansfield songbird with the Fred Waring radio show, made her first visit home in 14 months when she arrived Saturday afternoon and left Sunday night. She was homesick to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson, 35 Blymyer avenue, and raced home between broadcasts. She still works with the trio of girls and the chorus, does one solo a week on the air and a solo twice nightly for the Waring show at the Vanderbilt theater in New York City. She sings "Alice Blue Gown" in the same theater in which it was first sung when "Irene" premiered at that theater years ago. She will be in New York for at least another year, for the Waring show has re-signed with his sponsor for another year.

Both fun and work are in store for two Mansfield boys, LaMar Kenneth Baxter, jr., 612 Coleman road, and Robert Gardner, 599 Park avenue west. They are among 290 youngsters enrolled in the summer woodcraft camp at Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind. In addition to the regular camp program the boys will make a canoe trip down the Tippecanoe river and a trip to the Indian dunes on Lake Michigan. Over 700 boys from 37 states, the District of Columbia and five foreign countries are enrolled at the camp.

* * *

When Richard Stander, 475 Marion avenue, wrote a treatise for a degree at Ohio State university recently, he also compiled a complete story of the development of Richland county's road system for the county highway department. Young Stander, who plans to take up highway engineering, spent several weeks going through county road records and questioning highway officials to get his information. County Engineer Howard Sword received a gift copy of the treatise today. It was compiled in book form and contains 50 pages and a number of maps and graphs.

* * *

If you think the youngsters of Mansfield don't have influence around city hall, you'll revise your opinion after a talk with Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton. City council passed an ordinance May 21 ordering the licensing of all bicycles and black and white tags were ordered, to be sold at 25 cents each and to be valid for the life of the vehicle. The new tags hadn't come in yet this morning but the youngsters had. They want those tags. So Crafton is following up his order to the manufacturer with a request to "please rush."

DIES SUNDAY

John Hering, 50, Stricken at Hospital Here.

John Hering, 50, of Butler, a resident of Richland county since 1925, died Sunday evening at General hospital following a brief illness. He was born in New York City, March 14, 1890.

Mr. Hering, who had served in both the United States Army and Navy, was employed as an inspector at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company until ill health forced his retirement last fall.

Surviving are his widow, Sylvia May Kiner Hering; his mother, Mrs. Anna M. Hering of Mansfield, and four sisters, Mrs. J. S. Wainright of Mansfield; Mrs. Horace Sanford of Westfield, N. J.; Mrs. Margaret Graves of Herkimer, N. Y.; and Mrs. Anna H. Smith of Patchogue, N. Y.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. Glenn Lewis of the Grace Episcopal church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

SEEK CLUES IN AKRON SLAYING

(By International News Service)

AKRON—Failing in their efforts to learn the reason for the murder of Dr. Malcolm Dean Miller through questioning his wife and former secreatary, Mrs. Ruby Miller, 34, police today questioned other relatives in their search for clews.

Mrs. Miller, who was in her husband's office when a swarthy, mustached gunman threatened to shoot the 65-year-old women's specialist, but fled before the fatal shots were fired, left People's hospital where she had been taken with her dead husband.

Detective Inspector Verne E. Cross, who has been in charge of the investigation since the Friday night slaying, said he also planned to again question Mrs. Grace Carver, sister-in-law of Mrs. Miller, who was Dr. Miller's office attendant. She was on vacation in Tennessee with her husband when the slaying occurred.

Mrs. Miller, the doctor's second wife, was able to give Cross a complete description of the killer, but little of her account helped with progress in the investigation, Cross said.

He revealed that Dr. Miller had drawn a heavy frame revolver from his desk and cocked it before he fell to the floor with four bullets in his body. It was recalled that the doctor was firearms collector and Cross said he probably obtained the gun in that manner.

COURT 'MELTS' ICE INJUNCTION

Dissolves Injunction Order, Sends Case Back For Settlement.

An injunction obtained last week by George C. Estes to enable him to retain the use of an ice house and storage room at Fifth and Mulberry streets had been dissolved today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, who remanded the dispute to municipal court for settlement.

Motion to dissolve the order was filed by Mrs. Zona Laird, Mansfield, owner of the property.

Estes had obtained the temporary injunction against August Schultz, Mansfield, municipal court bailiff, and Mrs. Laird, contending that Mrs. Laird misrepresented the case against him in obtaining a decree of forcible detention.

Estes appealed to common pleas court from a decision against him in municipal court.

SANDUSKY— (INS) —Seventeen attachment actions were on file today against the Prins Willem II, 2,500-ton Dutch freighter, while national guardsmen maintained a 24-hour guard over the vessel.

Meanwhile, immigration authorities studied the arrest of 20 members of the crew, who sought the attachments to recover $1,900 in wage claims. The crew was arrested last Friday on charges of desertion when Capt. C. A. Vander Eyck told Sheriff William Souter they had threatened the ship's officers with death.

Alvin F. Weichel, attorney for the crew, said the attachment actions would prevent the sheriff from turning the Prins Willem over to federal authorities, but Souter said there was some doubt whether the Ohio law applies.

Captain Vander Eyck said the Dutch seamen are under mobilization "by royal decree." Several of the crew, however, admitted to Souter that they were Germans.

The Prins Willem tied up here during the Nazi invasion of the Netherlands when the crew feared internment at Montreal, where the vessel was sailing with a load of coal.

WAY BEHIND

Blame Water Collection Delay on Number Changes.

With only $3,000 of a total $28,000 water and sewer rental charge for the east half of the city collected to date, city water department officials otday were blaming the changes in house numbering for the delay.

F. E. Lingafelter, clerk, described as "practically nothing" the returns on the collection period which opened July 1 and closes next Monday.

Statements were addressed to old house numbers, Lingafelter explained, since the new addresses do not become official until August.

"It is possible that a number of statements have not been received at the correct address," Lingafelter said.

To correct any errors, the superintendent urged that persons in the east half of the city who had not received their water and sewer bills notify the department at once so duplicate statements can be mailed.

EX-POLICEMAN ROBBED OF $39

Ralph Hildebrand Says Money Taken From Home.

Ralph Hildebrand, 23 East Second street, today reported to police the theft of $39 from his home yesterday.

A former member of the police department, Hildebrand told police the money, in bills and coin, was taken from his wife's purse which had been left in a bedroom while Mrs. Hildebrand was working in the kitchen.

He said there was no evidence of anyone having broken into the house when he made a check of all doors and windows after the theft had been discovered.

Japanese Army Resents Gendarme Arrest

PLAIN CLOTHES MEN RELEASED AFTER APOLOGY

Marine Clean-up at Shanghai Threatens to Become 'Incident.'

By ROBERT BELLAIRE

SHANGHAI —(U.P.)— Japanese army men angrily threatened today to make a serious incident of the arrest by United State marines of 16 Japanese plain clothes men who entered their defense sector under arms yesterday in violation of a long-standing agreement.

Marine authorities had released the Japanese after, they said, a formal apology was made to Col. DeWitt Peck, marine commander. But today a Japanese army spokesman denied that any apology had been made.

He charged that the marines had assaulted and injured three or four of the Japanese and continued,

"They were treated like criminals sentenced to death. . . . It was an unfriendly act and a grave insult to the Japanese army. . . . We must conclude that the marines have abandoned their responsibility as a joint defense force at Shanghai. . . . We believe the case will acquire a serious nature in future."

Japanese army authorities, the spokesman said, had decided to make a strong protest and to reserve the right to make "demands" on the marines.

Col. Peck said that Maj. Gen. Miura, commanding Japanese gendarmes, made the apology and that he has a stenographic record of it. He said that Gen. Miura had advised him that the incident was closed.

Yesterday was the third anniversary of the outbreak of the Chinese-Japanese war. Defense precautions were taken throughout the international settlement and armored cars patroled the streets.

Gen. Juzo Nishio, Japanese troop commander, led a parade of a dozen or more automobiles through the defense sectors of other nations. Japanese armed with sub-machine guns surrounded the open touring car in which Nishio rode. The Japanese cars went at high speed, forcing all traffic to curb stones. Japanese machine gunners pointed their weapons at civilians.

Nishio went to the Park hotel, one of the highest buildings in the city, and from there had a look over Shanghai.

Meantime American marines began picking up Japanese plain clothes men whom they detected in groups of two and three in their sector.

The army spokesman admitted that the Japanese were wrong in not notifying the marines in advance that they intended to post gendarmes in the marine defense sector. This was an oversight, the spokesman said.

SCREEN SLASHED

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I'd like to have been present at the premiere of "Hold Onto Your Hats" when Al Jolson sang his torch song to Ruby Keeler. It's a ballad called "Don't Let It Get You Down," and I hear Al put so much heartache into it he had Ruby and the audience in tears. . . . When I hear Joe Louis talk, I always expect Madame Queen to walk in and say something. . . . I'm always tempted to see how close I can come to a Park avenue pigeon before he flies away.

I imagine the easiest way for a lonesome out-of-towner to get into friendly conversation with a stranger on a bus is to just mention the Brooklyn Dodgers.

I watched fascinated the other night in the Stork club while a lady fan rushed up to Monty Woolley to tell him how much she enjoyed his emoting. He couldn't have been more polite. But I always wonder what an actor is supposed to say when an admirer gushes, "I saw you in 'The Man Who Came to Dinner.'" All I can think of is, "Oh, did you?"

* * *

Nothing is sillier to me than a man's fashion show, unless it's the lads who model the new drapes. . . . Whenever I see skywriting aviators I always wish they'd cut loose and write something witty. The summer dining room in Hampshire house is the prettiest eating place in town.

It's hard to believe, but a very sober movie executive assured me the other night that Clark Gable has a clause in his contract which automatically gives him a three-week vacation whenever ducks are sighted in California or neighboring states. . . .

I have a wonderful new ice cream combination — banana, pistachio and chocolate, with a dash of chocolate sauce. Twenty One does it best—if under slight protest.

* * *

Those visiting firemen who sit at ringside tables and cut up just so they can tell the folks back home how they slapped or pinched a glamour girl in the floor show, ought to stay home, if you ask me —they shouldn't be allowed off the farm. . . . The Biltmore Roof is very pleasant these evenings, especially now that they've got Alvino Rey's orchestra and the singing King Sisters.

Paulette Goddard certainly has the right kind of a chassis for shorts. . . . It was amazing that a match like the Tony Galento-Maxie Baer contest, if I may exaggerate a little, could draw such a crowd of paying customers, when everyone apparently knew that no actual boxing would take place. I guess it drew because the casting was so good: The hero, big, handsome Maxie, versus the villain, ugly, tubby, little Tony.

* * *

Window shopping on Fifth Avenue is a wonderful pastime on a warm summer evening. And it's so safe—no matter how much you admire any of the divine trifles, the doors of the shop are locked. . . . Those little camera-sized radios are so fascinating you have the impulse to take them everywhere, including the night clubs, so you can tune in on "Information Please." . . . I've never been bitten by the collecting bug. Never wanted to collect anything—except maybe twenty-dollar bills.

I can't understand those "perfect week-ends" at the shore—which usually mean you manage to get through the traffic going there by sheer strength of expectation, but coming back! The Sunday night traffic flanks you, hems you in, cuts you off, and reduces you to a state of gibberish nerves. I prefer the quiet city, where the silence of the summer week-end is broken only by the occasional honk of the horn on a lonely taxi.

* * *

I wonder how titles like "He Stayed For Breakfast" get by the eagle eyes of the prim Hays office. . . . It's amazing to me how Guy Lombardo stays popular with millions of fans despite the popularity of swing. Maybe it's because of the popularity of swing.

It's very disconcerting, I think, to talk to some one who is wearing dark glasses. . . . I am a pushover for a music box, whether it's concealed in a powder box, a handbag or a cigaret jar.

Wonder whatever became of tea dancing? . . . I've really never seen a sailor rowing in Central park, or a plumber who forgot his tools. . . . When I look at the Skyline bar in Coq Rouge I yearn for that kind of a view from my window. . . . I love ping pong—to play, not to watch. It gives me a stiff neck to watch two experts volleying.

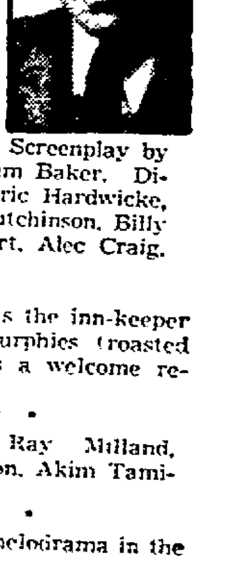
* * *

I can never choose a piece of French pastry from a large assortment without a three-minute study of shapes and an inquiry into the ingredients. . . . Men wearing black and white shoes remind me of Lindy's. . . . I think Hal Saunders' orchestra at the St. Regis is one of the most promising new bands in many a moon.

Now and then I like a Saturday afternoon at the Museum of Modern Art. . . . I think it's funny the way some of the chorines and show girls in the Broadway productions get fined if they get sun tanned, or if they switch from blond to brunett without asking the producer's permission. It's like being in a convent school, in a way. Only in a way.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS



HOLLYWOOD—"Tom Brown's School Days." Screenplay by Walter Ferris, Frank Cavett, Gene Towne, Graham Baker. Directed by Robert Stevenson. Principals: Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lydon, Josephine Hutchinson, Billy Halop, Polly Moran, Hughie Green, Ernest Cossart, Alec Craig, Gale Storm, Ian Fulton.

* * *

There's an appealing Mr. Chips-ish quality to this version of Thomas Hughes' widely read novel of English school life in the 1840's.

The story is of Dr. Thomas Arnold's struggle to elevate the then low standards prevalent in the schools to replace lying and cheating with the honor system and a sense of responsibility. It is an interesting yarn, well told and well acted by Sir Cedric (as Arnold) and a group of boys who are mostly American but serve convincingly enough as little Britons.

The boys of Rugby are wild ones when Dr Arnold takes over, firmly stressing his intenation to give Rugby a new and worthy character. Tom Brown (Lydon, a New Yorker with an engagingly homely face and a telling sincerity of performance) becomes the focal point in the struggle. A courageous lad, he challenges the reign of the school bully (Halop, ex-Dead End Kid) and is solidly backed by the better element, led by East (Bartholomew), until it appears that Tom has violated a fundamental tenet by "telling tales." Tom carries through his period of disgrace and finally justifies Arnold's faith.

It's an interesting projection of school life—the Rugby customs, the "bullying" (or hazing, as we here call it) the inter-class rivalries.

Polly Moran, as the inn-keeper who deals in Murphies (roasted potatoes), makes a welcome return to pictures.

* * *

"Untamed." Ray Milland, Patricia Morrison, Akim Tamiroff.

* * *

Romance and melodrama in the great north country, adding a wild snowstorm to Paramount's catalogue of Technicolor catastrophies (latest of which was in "Typhoon"). Adapted from Sinclair Lewis's "Mantrap," last filmed with Clara Bow, "Untamed" is the story of the waif (Morrison) adopted and married by the older, unromantic Easter (Tamiroff) and saved by the handsome doctor (Milland) who has gone north to forget.

* * *

"Cross Country Romance." Gene Raymond, Wendy Barrie.

* * *

If this seems familiar while you're laughing at it, it's merely because the "It Happened One Night" formula has been put to use again. Raymond (back on the screen after a two-year absence) gives an amusing characterization of a young doctor whose trailer becomes the refuge of a bride-elect who has run out on her wedding. It's good comedy, played with considerable spirit, and suggests a re-teaming of the principals.

Mansfield Wreckers Win Marion Softball Tournament

Braves Walloped By Hens After Winning Opener

Annex Two Games

Ross' Homer Helps Carver Take First, 2-1; Win Second, 6 to 3.

WHEN the Mansfield Wreckers start out to accomplish a feat they do it.

The Wreckers, their lineup strengthened with several outstanding Mansfield softball stars, copped two games at Marion yesterday to win the first annual Marion Golden Cup tournament championship.

With Freddie Carver, veteran righthander, hurling three-hit ball, and Harry Ross providing the margin of victory with a homer in the sixth, the Wreckers took the first tussle from Kent Markets of Columbus by a 3 to 1 count.

* * *

Manager Nick Wagner's combine turned seven hits into eight runs to take the Marion Merchants into camp by a 6 to 3 score.

* * *

It marks the first major tourney title won by the Wreckers, a member of the Y. M. C. A. Independent league. Some 25 teams were in the tourney.

Carver had things his own way in the initial affray, but a walk coupled with a double gave the Columbus team a run in the fifth to knot the score at 1-all.

But Ross readily took care of the situation with his timely four-bagger. It was one of the longest homers hit in the classic.

Jimmy Fullager handled the mound assignment in the second setto, although he gave up seven hits, kept them well-scattered.

Against the Marion combine, the Wreckers punched over three markers in the first frame to take an early lead. The Merchants, however, tried to save the game and tied the score at 3-3 with a splurge in the fourth.

Those Merchants' runs seemed to act as a tonic to the Wreckers for they retaliated with three additional scores in their half of that frame and Fullager protected the lead to the finish.

Nick Weber and Ed Henrich annexed hitting honors in the first canto, with three hits apiece. Henrich had a double.

Weber came back to take honors in the second with a home run and single, while Henrich contributed two singles to the attack. Kinkel hit a homer for the losers.

Tribe Bumped Out of First Place by Sox

Indians Send 6 Players to All-Star Game; Lyons Tops Club, 3-1.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians, bumped out of first place by the Chicago White Sox, sent six players by airplane today to the All-Star game at St. Louis.

* * *

They are pitchers Bob Feller and Al Milnar, second baseman Ray Mack, shortstop Lou Boudreau, third baseman Ken Keltner and catcher Rollie Hemsley.

* * *

Misplays by Feller and Keltner handed the Sox Sunday's game 3 to 1 and put the Tribe half a game behind the Detroit Tigers who whipped their St. Louis "cousins" the tenth time in 12 games.

Chicago and Cleveland each scored one run in the fourth inning and that was all until the ninth. But Keltner's misfortunes started in the eighth. He pounded out one of the longest drives ever seen in the Cleveland stadium only to be thrown out by a perfect relay to the plate.

* * *

On the first play of the ninth Keltner threw Luke Appling's grounder past first base for a two-base error. Feller walked Mike Tresh. Bob Kennedy sacrificed but Feller threw to third too late to catch Appling.

* * *

With the bases filled, Feller settled down long enough to fan Ted Lyons, his opponent on the mound, but then he walked Ray Silvestri, forcing in the winning run. Tresh scored the final run on an infield out and the game was donated without a hit in this fatal stanza. Lyons held the Indians to six hits while Feller gave eight.

AMATEUR OFFICIALS ACT ON USE OF SEMI-PROS

DAYTON—(AP)—Officials of the National Amateur Baseball federation, acting to enforce a rule against signing of semi-pro players after July 1, said amateur teams using banned players would be subject to automatic elimination from the national tournament in Birmingham, Ala., this summer. The announcement was made at a week-end meeting of federation leaders here.

Divide Two With Tiffin; Entertain Findlay Here Tonight.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WHATEVER hopes the Mansfield Braves had on gaining precious ground in the Ohio State league championship race yesterday were blasted when the Tiffin Mudhens split a doubleheader at the Fairground before some 800 spectators.

Mansfield was on the right track in the opener, taking a one-sided 11 to 6 decision, but it ran into Walter McHugh in the night cap and suffered a 9 to 0 whipping. It was the first whitewashing administered to the Braves in the Fair park.

* * *

Bob Arnold was on the hill in the first game and while Tiffin secured 11 hits, kept them scattered to chalk up his eighth win of the season.

* * *

Herb Woodten, Braves' centerfielder, aided Arnold when he cracked out a home run over the left field wall in the second inning with three teammates on the paths.

Manager Dewey Stover sent George Laurila to the mound in the nightcap. George was wobbly in the first two frames and his infield didn't help any by committing four errors. Two of the bobbles came with double plays in sight.

Either Alex Radoumis or Tony Angaran will toe the rubber against the Findlay Oilers at the Fairground at 8:30 p. m. today. It will be the last home appearance of the Braves until Friday night. Mansfield was scheduled to play here Wednesday, but the All-Star game in Lima forced postponement of the tussle.

The way Mansfield teed off against the Mudhens in the opener it looked like the club might gain on the leaders, but McHugh, apparently, didn't think so. Lima split a twin bill with Fremont yesterday.

Tiffin scored twice in the first inning of the initial tilt and after Mansfield had tied the score the Braves forged ahead with a six-run uprising in the second. That splurge gave the Braves a lead they never relinquished.

Mansfield led, 9 to 6, going into the last of the eighth and Walt Missler put the game on ice with a two-run homer. It was his second home run of the season.

But it was a different story in the second session. Hal Hundemer and Howard Beals opened the first inning with successive hits, but it stopped right there as McHugh, who will pitch in the All-Star game Wednesday, handcuffed the Braves.

Tiffin scored once in the first, added another marker in the third and piled up a comfortable lead with three tallies in the fourth. Three hits and an error was responsible for the runs. Laurila gave up four more runs before Tony Drewek relieved him in the seventh. Drewek retired Tiffin without a run the rest of the way.

* * *

The only other Mansfield threat came in the sixth when it collected three hits. On the third hit Missler tried to score from third, but was out at the plate.

* * *

Stover pounded out a double and two singles to pace the attack in the first game, while Hundemer secured two singles in the second. Gerlach had a double and two singles against Arnold. Joseph, Campau, King and McHugh each collected two hits in the night cap.

Cincinnati, Detroit Can Take A Breathing Spell

By BILL WHITE
(AP Sports Writer)

WHILE big league baseball shines its shoes and goes "society" out in St. Louis for the All-Star game, a pleasing three-day hush settles over the swirling for first place in both leagues.

The next three days will give the Cincinnati Reds and the Detroit Tigers time to get a deep breath after reaching the top and it will give the Cleveland Indians and the Brooklyn Dodgers ample time to review yesterday's shortcomings that cost them the league leads.

The Reds, no strangers to the top rung, climbed there by dint of a 4-3 "gift" from the Chicago Cubs and the Dodgers' double defeat.

Meanwhile, in Boston, the Brooks, cheered by [illegible] loyal home folk bowed in a pair of heartbreakers 1-0 and 2-1. Whit Wyatt lost a four hitter in the first game, then the Bees got away to a lead in the second game and hung on stubbornly to win 2-1.

In the American league the Cleveland Indians kicked away the American league lead with a ninth inning blow-up in their 3-1 game with the White Sox, coupled with Detroit's well earned victory over the Browns.

The Tigers climbed to the top of the league and all over their St. Louis "cousins" 5-2.

The victory was achieved largely through Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe's five hit pitching.

The other National league change in stands saw the Pittsburgh Pirates erase a five game losing streak by sweeping a four game series with the Cards. They won yesterday by 7-6 and 4-1, to capture fifth place.

The third place New York Giants split with the Phillies, winning the first game 6-4 with a four run first-inning outburst, but losing the second 4-2.

* * *

The other games in the American league saw the Yankees beat the Athletics 6-3 and then lose the second game to Nelson Potter's six hit pitching, 10-5.

Mose Grove pulled himself through to one more winning effort for Boston in his amazing career, this one over Washington by 7-1 but the shining Red Sox couldn't solve Rene Monteagudo's slants in the afterpiece and bowed 7-4.

Deschner gave the Isaly's only four hits in the first contest and Appleman held the Isaly club to only three hits in the second. Deschner struck out five and Appleman four.

Henry Deschner ran off with the batting honors in the first conflict by smashing out a triple: Kopicial and Pittenger of the Nite clubbers and Harner of the Isalys each got a double.

Feature of the second contest was home runs by Kopicial and Price of the Isalys. Kopicial led the hitters in the two games by getting a double, a home run, and two singles out of seven trips to the platter.

Unknown Tops Favorites

Unseeded Sam Hayes Cops Ohio Singles Title.

PIQUA—(AP)—Next time Sam P. Hayes, jr., of Holyoke, Mass., brings his tennis racket to Ohio, tournament officials likely will treat his name with greater respect.

* * *

Hayes, unseeded and virtually unknown in the midwest, completed his rout of favorites in the annual Western Ohio Open championships yesterday by trimming George Richey of San Angelo, Texas, for the men's singles titles and teaming up with Harry Zink of Steubenville for the men's doubles crown.

Hayes beat Richey, 6-1, 6-0, 6-2, and Hayes and Zink out-stroked Bob Burroughs of Monroe, Mich., and Jimmy Kelley of Detroit, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

Ken Bentley of Danville, Ill., won the junior singles crown with a 6-2, 6-2 beating of Charlie Schoew of Huntington, W. Va., in the final match.

Redlegs Regain First Place in National Race

Hand Bees Twin Defeat to Take Top Berth for 8th Time This Season.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Although the Reds jumped back into first place in the uncertain National League pennant race after five straight victories they owe Boston a vote of thanks for an assist.

* * *

The Bees enabled Cincinnati to hold top position for the eighth time this season before Bill McKechnie, the Reds' manager who will pilot the National crew in the All-Star game, headed for St. Louis yesterday.

* * *

While Cincinnati defeated the Cubs 4-3 the Bees were setting the Dodgers down 1-0 and 2-1 to put Brooklyn back in second place.

Ival Goodman, whose big bat has been potent in Cincinnati victories, drove in three runs with a single and a homer for the triumph over Chicago. But Hurler Bill Lee handed the Reds the victory on a platter by walking Morrie Arnovich with the bases loaded in the eighth to force in the winning run.

The defeat was Lee's 11th, against six victories.

Frank McCormick's long fly brought in a run in the first inning for the Reds. Lew Riggs' double and Goodman's ninth homer of the season, his third in five games, counted two more in the third.

Rookie Johnny Hutchings, making his first big-league start, held the Cubs until the fifth inning when they scored a run on Bob Mattick's double and Lee's single.

* * *

He was replaced in the sixth after the Cubs filled the bases. Falling to score at that point, the Bruins tied the count in the seventh when Hank Leiber singled Lee and Stan Hack home.

* * *

The victory went to Joe Beggs, who finished on the mound for the Reds.

KNOT HOLE SCHEDULE

All-Star Squads Tangle on Field Familiar to Both Sides

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—They are playing the eighth rendition of the major league All-Star baseball game in Sportsman's Park tomorrow but it's the first time the heroes will tangle on a diamond equally familiar to both sides.

* * *

Back in 1933 the game was started in the Chicago White Sox park as the answer to the fans' prayer and a sportswriter's dream. Fittingly enough, the dream player of all-time, Babe Ruth, smashed a home run to give the American leaguers the first of their five victories.

Since then the leaguers have alternated as hosts. Now it is the turn of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National circuit to spread the festive board before an expected [illegible] customers.

And in recent years the Cardinals have shared Sportsman's park with their fellowtownsmen, the Browns [illegible] league.

* * *

Which all means that the wind currents and shadows tormenting the American leaguers in their regularly scheduled games with the Browns have been studied by the Nationals in their stopovers with the Cards—that the sun spots disturbing the fielders in the senior loop have been scanned by their rivals.

With the terrain so familiar, bettors today argued that the American league contingent was a 5 to 2 favorite on its pitching and batting prowess.

Leach Leads In Qualifier

Mansfielders Fail to Make Grade at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Cleveland's Al Leach, 1938 national public links champ, showed the way over the week-end to northern Ohio qualifiers for this year's tournament which will be held in Detroit July 22-27.

Leach put together a par 72 and a 76 for 148 over the new 18-hole Highland Park course here yesterday, to shade John Nowack, with 149. Ed Preisler, Ed Garfield and Ralph Schneider tied with 151's. The other qualifier was John Skinner, last year's city public links champ, with 152. All are of Cleveland.

Joe Mayer, Joe Caspar, Nick Linster, and Vin Malaska—Mansfielders who entered the qualifier—failed to make the grade. Mayer had a 156, Caspar a 157, Linster 162, and Malaska 164.

Leach as an ex-champion was not obliged to qualify but played to gain a place on Cleveland's three-man team which will compete with players from 38 other sectional qualifiers for the intercity harding trophy. Nowack and Schneider will be his teammates.

Women Ready For Battle

72 Ohioans Vie for State Golf Championship.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A field of 72 Ohio women golfers were lined up here today for a week-long battle, which showed the possibility of plenty of surprises, to determine a state champion.

Defending her state's women's crown, Mrs. Linton Fallis of Toledo Inverness was to start qualifying rounds over the Losantiville course today, paired with Mrs. James D. Platt of Dayton. Championship positions will go to those holding the 16 low scores.

Mrs. Fallis, who won the Toledo district trophy four straight times, was expected to meet strong opposition from a score of tournament contestants.

Among them were Miss Janet Shock of Dayton and Sally Elson of Columbus, both former champions; Mrs. Edward Goddard of Columbus; Miss Dorothy Gardner of Steubenville and Miss Isabel Ogilvie of Cleveland.

Blues Stick Out Necks

Play All-Stars That Handed Them Defeat in '39.

(By Associated Press)

The Kansas City Blues have stuck out their collective necks again for the American Association's annual All-Star game July 17.

* * *

The defending champions qualified as the team to meet the All-Stars by taking over first place Saturday and holding onto it Sunday with a double victory. The game will be played in the Blues' own Ruppert stadium, site of the 1939 contest in which the All-Stars humiliated Kansas City 19 to 7.

* * *

The defending champions swept three-game series with Columbus, copping a double header yesterday, 10 to 0 and 7 to 5. The three losses dropped the Birds from third to sixth place.

Minneapolis overtook Indianapolis in both ends of a twin bill, 5 to 4 in 10 innings and 4 to 3.

Lowly Toledo rose up and defeated Milwaukee twice, 5 to 4 and 4 to 3. Louisville and St. Paul broke even. The Colonels breezed to a 2-0 victory in the first engagement, the second tilt went eight innings before the Saints took a 6 to 2 decision.

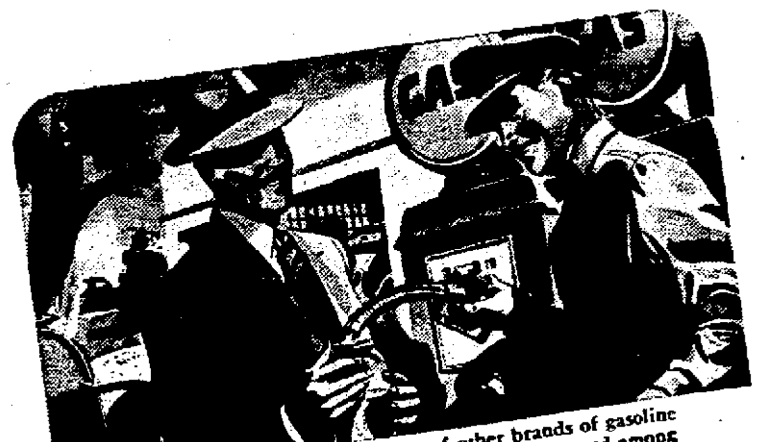
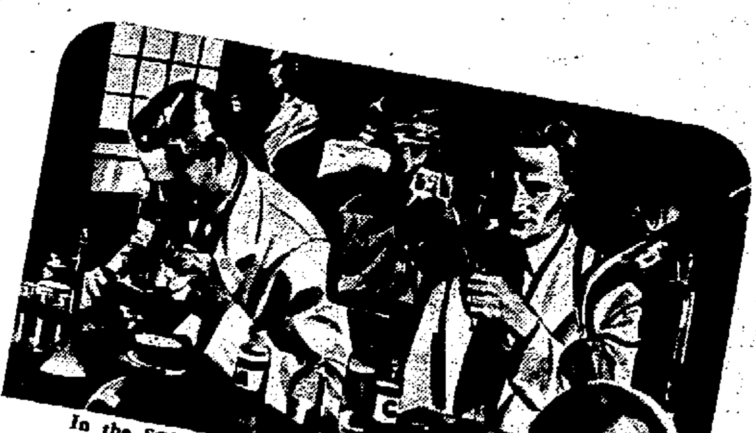
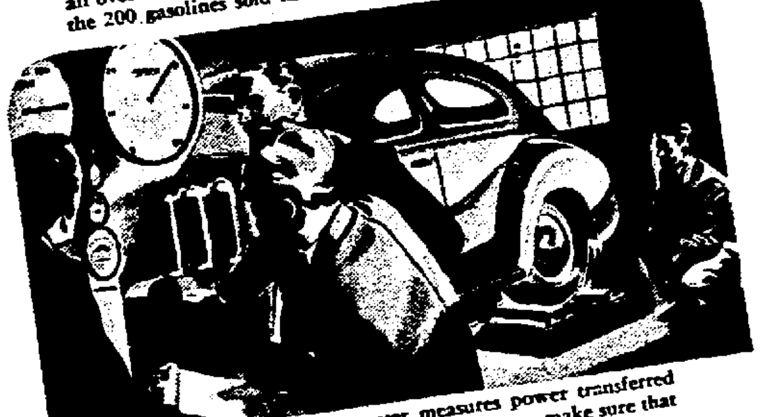
285,000 TESTS LIKE THESE A YEAR... assure you Sohio X-70 is unexcelled in mileage, pickup, power and anti-knock!



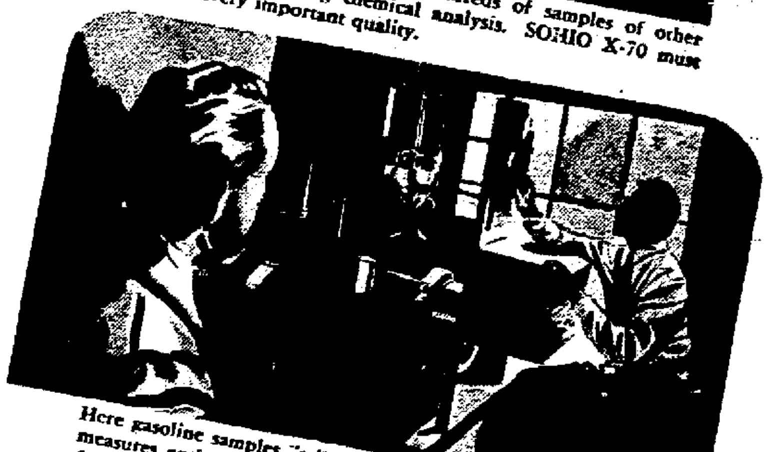
SOHIO Engineers regularly buy samples of other brands of gasoline all over Ohio to make sure that SOHIO X-70 is unsurpassed among the 200 gasolines sold in Ohio at "regular" price.



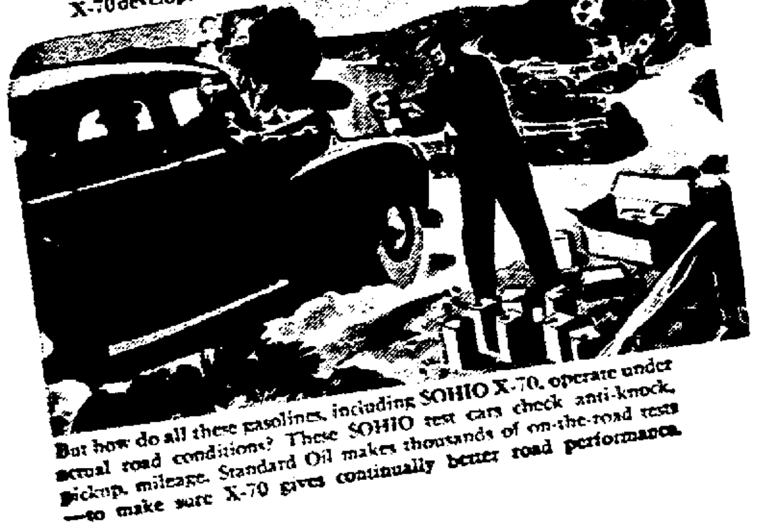
In the SOHIO laboratories, these hundreds of samples of other gasolines undergo exacting chemical analysis. SOHIO X-70 must be "tops" in every important quality.



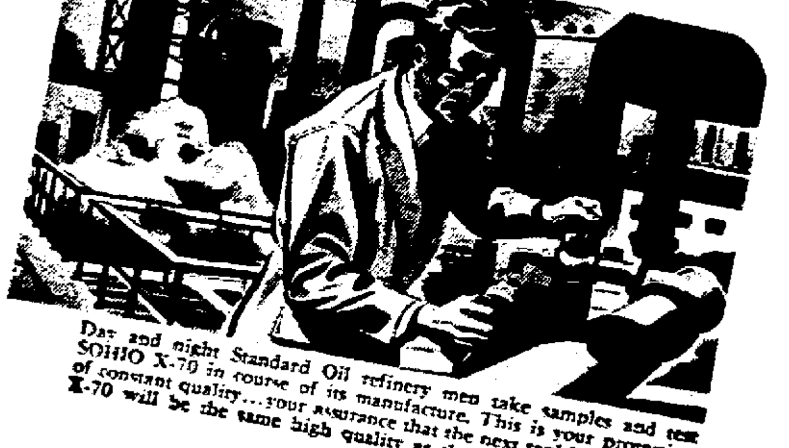
Testing for power! This dynamometer measures power transferred from the engine to the rear wheels. Here is where we make sure that X-70 develops the capacity power your car maker built into your motor.



Here gasoline samples "talk out loud!" This knock-testing machine measures anti-knock. Many of the 23 improvements in X-70 since 1935 have given it outstanding anti-knock quality.



But how do all these gasolines, including SOHIO X-70, operate under actual road conditions? These SOHIO test cars check anti-knock, pickup, mileage. Standard Oil makes thousands of on-the-road tests—to make sure X-70 gives continually better road performance.



Day and night Standard Oil refinery men take samples and test SOHIO X-70 in course of its manufacture. This is your protection of constant quality...your assurance that the next tankful of SOHIO X-70 will be the same high quality as the last tankful you used!

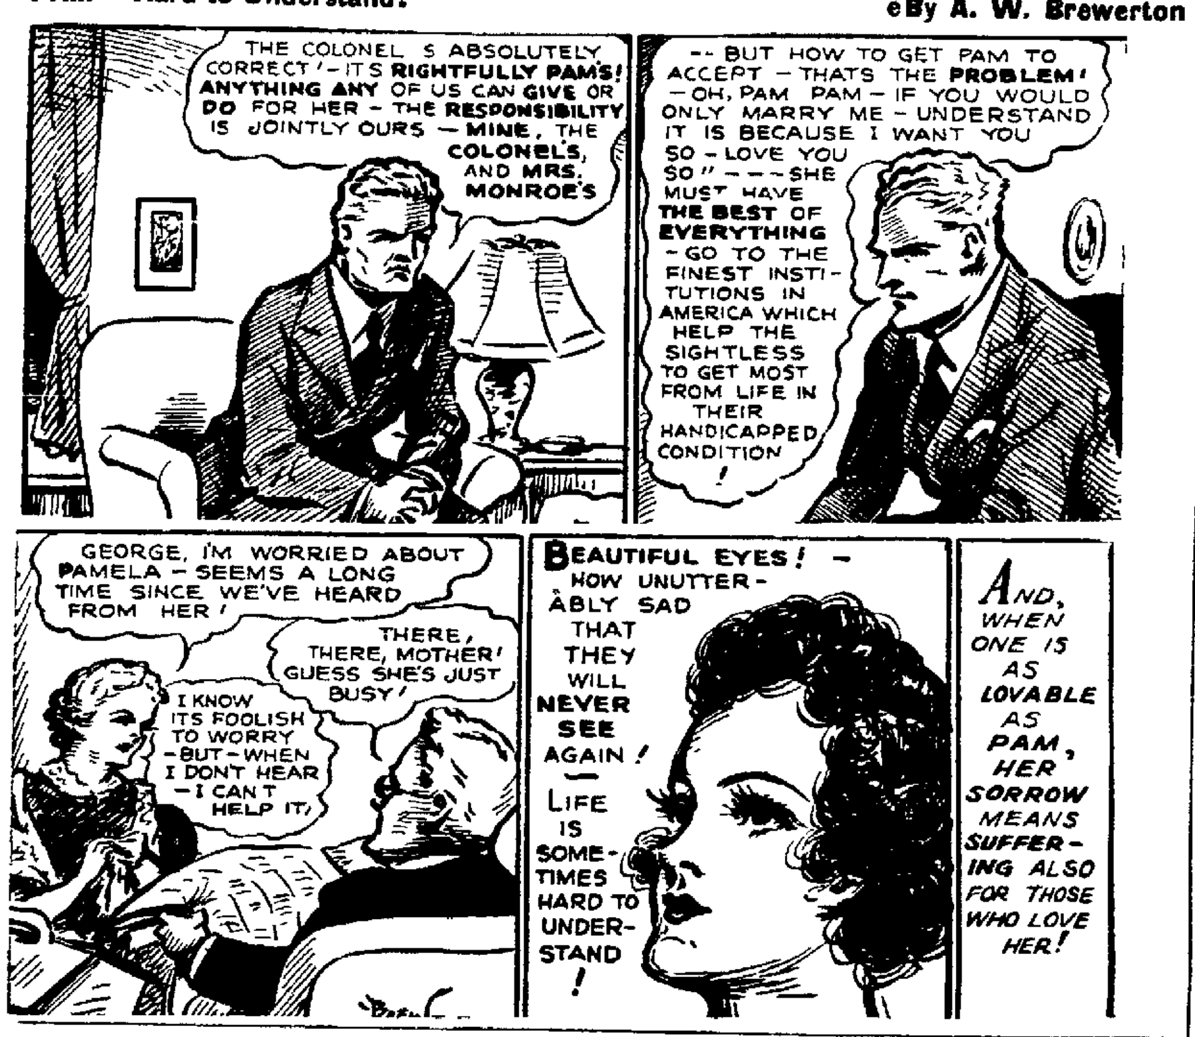
PAM— Hard to Understand!

eBy A. W. Brewerton



THE COLONEL S ABSOLUTELY CORRECT!—IT'S RIGHTFULLY PAM'S! ANYTHING ANY OF US CAN GIVE OR DO FOR HER — THE RESPONSIBILITY IS JOINTLY OURS — MINE, THE COLONEL'S, AND MRS. MONROE'S
-- BUT HOW TO GET PAM TO ACCEPT — THATS THE PROBLEM! — OH, PAM PAM — IF YOU WOULD ONLY MARRY ME — UNDERSTAND IT IS BECAUSE I WANT YOU SO — LOVE YOU SO" — — — SHE MUST HAVE THE BEST OF EVERYTHING — GO TO THE FINEST INSTITUTIONS IN AMERICA WHICH HELP THE SIGHTLESS TO GET MOST FROM LIFE IN THEIR HANDICAPPED CONDITION!
GEORGE, I'M WORRIED ABOUT PAMELA — SEEMS A LONG TIME SINCE WE'VE HEARD FROM HER!
THERE, THERE, MOTHER! GUESS SHE'S JUST BUSY!
I KNOW ITS FOOLISH TO WORRY — BUT — WHEN I DONT HEAR — I CANT HELP IT!
BEAUTIFUL EYES! — HOW UNUTTERABLY SAD THAT THEY WILL NEVER SEE AGAIN! — LIFE IS SOMETIMES HARD TO UNDERSTAND!
AND, WHEN ONE IS AS LOVABLE AS PAM, HER SORROW MEANS SUFFERING ALSO FOR THOSE WHO LOVE HER!

WARY TRADERS HOLD BACK ON STOCK MARKET

Leading Issues Fail to Show Definite Trend Awaiting Next War Thrust.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market traders continued to conserve buying ammunition today and leading issues failed to develop a definite trend.

Business hopes remained a sustaining influence, brokers said, but Wall Street was inclined to restrain its bullish urge pending clarification of the next European war thrust, domestic taxes and politics.

Bonds were selectively improved, as were commodities. "Free" sterling slipped in terms of the dollar.

Stocks edging forward now and then included General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Du Pont, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Western Union, Consolidated Edison and Texas Corp. Steels were listless.

Those friendly to aircraft shares found satisfaction in compilations putting June deliveries of the primary plane makers at a new monthly top of roughly $45,000,000.

Scanned was the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that full weight of home defense requirements in the hard metal industry is still in the future, although private steel consumers are seeking to increase inventories as a protetction against possible government priorities being put into effect.

SCORES DIE IN MEXICAN VOTE RIOTS SUNDAY

Between 50 and 100 Lives Reported Lost as Guns Enliven Election.

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY — Riotous disorders which accompanied Mexico's presidential elections yesterday were estimated today to have taken between 50 and 100 lives and reports of widespread irregularities threatened to complicate the task of determining the outcome of the voting.

An unofficial count showed at least 30 persons dead in Mexico City alone, while scores—perhaps hundreds—were reported wounded during pitched battles which surged through the streets of the capital.

Some reports from the provinces indicated that the total injured might be in the thousands.

Among the casualties in the capital were two American students—Edward J. Mallen, Jr., of Franni, Wyoming, who was reported near death with a pistol wound in the stomach, and Leonard Durso, 18, of Union City, N. J., who was gravely wounded by a rifle bullet.

Both Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, administration candidate, and his independent rival, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, issued statements claiming overwhelming victory.

The actual canvass of returns, however, will not be made until Thursday and the official result will not be announced by congress until September.

The government made no comment about the outcome of the election, but deplored "bloody incidents," commented significantly on reports of election law violations and said they would be punished.

Complaints poured in from all over the nation that Almazan's supporters had been denied the right to vote, and fear was expressed in some quarters that the final tabulation of ballots might be accompanied by further disorders.

There were no official estimates on the number of casualties and unofficial figures varied greatly. General Almazan said his reports indicated that "100 or more" lives had been lost; other estimates placed the figure in the region of 50.

FLAG TRIBUTE OPENS COURT

Pittsburgh Common Pleas Judges Hold Session Patriotically.

PITTSBURGH— (INS) —Following the advice of Judge M. A. Musmanno, author of the coal fields story, "Black Fury," Judges of the Common Pleas Courts in Pittsburgh henceforth will open each day's court session with a tribute to the Stars and Stripes.

The ceremony was adopted by the Board of Judges, and upon the opening of court the presiding judge will deliver the following tribute in the assignment room:

"Let us stand in tribute to the American flag, symbol of the unity of a freedom-loving people. In this flag we behold the Constitution, the safeguard of our homes, the champion of our security and our liberties.

"Let us cherish it and be forever loyal to the ideal of those patriots who have made the Stars and Stripes the emblem of justice in our courts throughout the land."

Commenting on the new procedure, A. G. Trimble, vice president of the American Flag Day association, said:

"There is no more appropriate place than the courts for demonstration of allegiance to the American flag. We shall seek to have the tribute followed in the courts of the nation."

NAZI RAIDERS EMPLOY GLIDE ATTACK METHOD

Drop More Than 100 Bombs on Britain's Coastal Towns In Daylight.

Small crowds stood outside, watching officials come and go from Hitler's headquarters, anticipating the fuehrer will quickly give the signal for his next move. Authentic quarters told International News Service:

"Hitler alone will decide when the moment is ripe for what is going to happen. Naturally he is in consultation with our friends, for which purpose Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano came here."

(A dispatch from Geneva reported that advices from Berlin said the "real object" of Ciano's visit concerned the new anti-British attitude of France. Italian anxiety over Soviet Russian policy in the Balkans and preparations for Italy's role in the expected Italo-German attack upon England.)

Ciano, who conferred with Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, departed for the German-occupied areas of France, Belgium and Holland. He will return to Berlin Wednesday.

His discussions here covered every problem in the present European situation, with particular reference to southeastern Europe, where Axis policy is aimed at future "peaceful revision."

It was understood in Berlin that French military action against England will continue "on a separate plane." Authorities in Berlin asserted:

"We do not need the French as an ally. We can take care of three Englands single-handed. But Germany has given the French a free hand to avenge their honor."

Alexandria Raided By Air.

ALEXANDRIA —(AP)— Enemy bombing planes raided Alexandria for 10 minutes this morning before they were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

More hostile planes appeared over Alexandria shortly after noon, but met heavy anti-aircraft fire and veered off to sea without dropping bombs.

Italian aircraft attempted to raid Alexandria harbor last night but were driven off. No casualties or damage were reported. In a subsequent raid late last night anti-aircraft guns succeeded in bringing down one of the invaders.

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—Nine civilians were killed and one wounded in an Italian air raid over Malta yesterday which was intercepted by British fighters, the headquarters communique of the Royal Air Force announced today.

ROME — (AP) — Renewed air raids with "evidently effective results" at British naval bases at Alexandria and Malta were carried out yesterday, the Italian high command reported today.

Bombers attacked British motorized columns along the frontier between Egypt and Libya, destroying some tanks and armored cars, the communique reported.

Sweden Agrees To Nazi Trade.

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Sweden openly entered a course of close cooperation with Germany today, its aim a "normalized Scandinavia."

Trade—The trade on which Sweden depends for existence—and the safe-guarding of the nation's "living space" were the objects sought through multilateral agreements with Germany, with German-dominated Denmark and German-controlled Norway.

These agreements, expected to be completed this week, were practical manifestations of the new Swedish policy indicated by Prime Minister Per Hansson.

Hansson's policy is based on the premise that, with the war in Norway ended and Sweden's access to British markets closed, the Swedes' one hope of resuming business, is through trade with Germany and Nazi-dominated areas.

Claim British Cruiser Damaged.

VICHY, France — (AP) — Havas (French news agency) reported today that the British battle cruiser Hood had been hit many times and that two British destroyers had been seriously damaged, perhaps sunk, during the battle with French naval units off Mers El-Kebir July 3.

Two British planes also were shot down by French fighting planes and coastal batteries, Havas said, quoting an official announcement issued here.

O. S. R. Inmate Captured Soon After Flight From Farm.

Three hours after he fled the Mansfield reformatory farm Sunday morning, William Baker, 22, an inmate, was captured by guards in a woodlot north of the reformatory.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said Baker, sentenced from Trumbull county for burglary and larceny, fled while other inmates were attending a movie at the institution.

Glattke said the usual two-year penalty will be imposed on Baker who was scheduled for a parole hearing next December. He entered the institution Nov. 12, 1938 on a one-to-15-year sentence.

BLOCKADE HITS ITALY'S EMPIRE

Libya Only Point Open to Mussolini as British Tighten Barrier.

(Continued From Page 1) sire to deplete her own war and food materials; but even if this difficulty could be overcome the problem of transportation appears almost insolvable.

The journey from Japan to Italian East Africa requires one month. The regular trade route passes Singapore, where no Italian supply ships could get through. The only alternative routes are near the northern and southern coasts of Australia, where naval surveillance is continuous.

Even if an occasional vessel were lucky enough to pass these barriers, it still would be necessary to run the British blockade which is maintained along the Italian East African coastline. There are very few ports where heavy cargo could be discharged.

The only port in Italian possession connected with the interior by rail is Djibuti, in French Somaliland.

The Franco-Italian armistice terms give Italy control of Djibuti, but the concession has no present value. Djibuti is on the narrow gulf of Aden opposite Aden, a base for British naval operations. It is as securely locked against Italian shipping as is Eritrea, whose coastline on the Red sea is sealed by British control of the Suez waterways.

Mussolini thus has lost overseas communication with the whole of his new Italian empire except Libya on the Mediterranean. His only way of imperial contact is by air, which has very limited use. This condition will endure as long as the British fleet commands the sea. Abyssinia, Eritrea, and Italian Somaliland are now being subjected to the strangulation blockade which the British believe finally will win the war for them in Europe as well as in Africa.

It still was not known in Washington whether Dies would run for the vice-presidential nomination.

FARLEY SHARES F. D. R.'S SECRET

But 'Big Jim' Won't Tell So Silence Continues Until Party Convention.

Farley, the national Democratic chairman, and the president met in Mr. Roosevelt's library at Hyde Park, N. Y. yesterday.

They talked about the approaching convention, the Democratic platform, and the third term issue.

"I had a very satisfactory talk with the president," Farley said afterward, "and I have full knowledge of his thoughts and what he has in mind."

But any announcement on the third term, or any discussion of the time or place for the announcement, must come from the president, he asserted.

He parried questions designed to draw him out on the possibility that he might give up his jobs as Democratic chairman and postmaster general and acquire an interest in the New York Yankee baseball team.

"I'll discuss any future plans I may have with regard to party activities at the Chicago convention," he said.

Farley wants a brief platform. "The shorter the better," he said. "The people will read a short one and not a long one."

Moreover, he added with a grin, Republican papers might print a short one.

The president's most immediate concern today was with progress of plans to double the defense program. He had ordered his appointment held to a minimum until he could finish drafting recommendations for a supplementary program which defense experts say will be in the neighborhood of $5,000,000,000.

Two youths, who heard the boy's cries for help, tried to aid but nearly lost their own footing in the sand loosened by the child's slide.

They said young Otter, in play, slid down the pile and climbed safely from the pit twice before the fatal slide.

Police and firemen, including the victim's father, worked four hours with the aid of a heavy dredge to recover the body.

It is said that since Petain took office the extremely active semi-Fascist Croix-De-Feu organization of Col. Francois De La Rocque has gained tremendous new strength among army, navy and air force officers.

A French spokesman in Vichy was quoted as saying France planned no hostilities against Britain, despite their diplomatic break over Britain's attack on the French fleet.

A dispatch from Grenoble, however, said the navy minstry had announced two rearmed French air squadrons had joined German-Italian forces in raids on Gibraltar.

It added: "British planes dropped a few bombs in west Germany during the day with little success. In the night, attacks on north and west Germany did only little material damage. Two civilians were killed.

The Essener National Zeitung, commenting on the visit to Germany of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, said his conferences with Adolf Hitler and German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop concerned post-war arrangements.

"These discussions naturally include questions of southeast Europe which has been spot-lighted by Soviet activity," the newspaper said. It added that "the curtain is about to rise on the last act of the present war," and that Britain would be "destroyed by a common deed of arms."

Ciano conferred with Hitler for an hour and 45 minutes yesterday afternoon and left in the evening for a two-day tour of the German-occupied region of France, to view the work of the German blitzkrieg.

VILLAGE SEWAGE PLANT GETS O. K.

South Boulevards Expected to Start Construction By End of August.

The village of South Boulevards had received approval from Washington today of a $81,000 WPA grant for a new sewage plant, and Mayor E. C. Flory said work probably will start on the project before the end of August.

Mayor Flory said approximately three acres of land at the southern edge of the village had been purchased from Mrs. Amy Douglass, Cleveland, as a site of the disposal plant. The purchase price was not revealed. The project will cost a total of $108,000.

It was expected that $27,500 in bonds will be offered for sale and bids for furnishing materials for the project will be requested within the next two or three weeks. The bond issue was voted last fall.

Plans for the sewage plant have been approved by the state health department, paving the way for actual construction work as soon as the contract has been awarded, the mayor said.

The new village south of Mansfield was incorporated in May last year after its request for annexation to the city of Mansfield was turned down by city council. The incorporation was primarily for the purpose of obtaining a federal grant for the sewage plant.

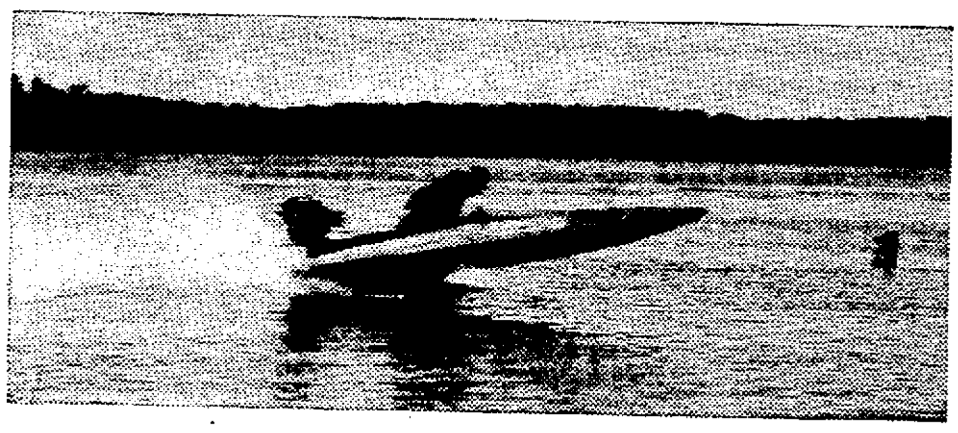
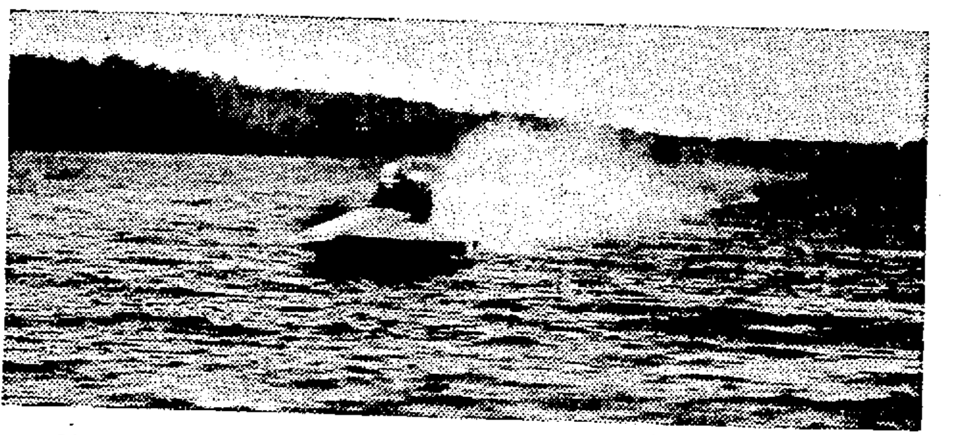
EXTRA SKILL AND EXTRA DARING MADE CLINTON FERGUSON AMERICA'S NO.1 OUTBOARD CHAMPION





BOMBSHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric, varnish...why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboarding today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open...throws himself around...with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart...like the extra mildness of Camels.

SMOKERS:
SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

THE "EXTRAS" of costlier, slower-burning tobaccos have made Camels the No. 1 cigarette in the field. And the explanation of these extras in Camels is just as scientific as it is logical. Too-fast burning in a cigarette creates excess heat. Excess heat ruins the delicate elements of mildness and flavor. Slower burning preserves flavor and aroma...naturally gives a cooler smoke. Camels, with their costlier tobaccos, give you extras that you won't find in any other cigarette—even a slower way of burning that means extra smoking per pack (see panel at right).

AVIATION NEWS—

FOUR STUDENT FLIERS TAKE SOLO FLIGHTS

Two Ground Classes of 25 Each Planned in Near Future at Airport.

Students in the Civilian Pilot Training course at Mansfield airport reached the half-way mark in solo flights during the past week, according to Instructor James R. Harrington, when four more of the 10 members of the class took a plane aloft alone for the first time.

The four who soloed were Harry Junker, jr., Edward Smith, Charles Bookwalter and William Hallum, all of Mansfield.

The first to solo was Charles Hensch. Betty Thompson, only girl student in the class, will solo this week.

• • •

As soon as the formal blanks arrive, the Mansfield civilian training school will start two more ground classes of 25 each under the CAA system. Authorization came from the CAA last week, and the classes are scheduled to start by July 15.

Instructor Harrington says he has tentative applications from 100 potential fliers in the area, but is awaiting arrival of the proper forms before starting enrollment of students.

The procedure this time will be slightly different from that which applied for the first class, Harrington says. Candidates for the new classes will take their physical examinations first, and only those who pass the physicals will be permitted to start ground school work. In the first class, physical examinations came at the end of the ground school work and before the start of flying instructions.

• • •

The 50 new CPT students will also save themselves money. When the classes were first set up, the candidates had to pay for their physical exams, insurance and instruction. This time, the government foots the whole bill.

• • •

Are you one of those Mansfielders who wondered Sunday what those 18 planes that flew westward across the city were?

Well, the ships didn't stop at Mansfield airport but observers there were able to identify them as commercial planes. Taylorcraft, (they're made at Alliance) apparently heading westward for delivery to purchasers.

• • •

Unusual interest in instruction as plane mechanics has been evidenced at the airport, officials there report, with over 25 youths seeking to learn maintenance and repair of planes.

As a result, Norman Kann, president of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautics association, is attempting to set up a school in plane mechanics with the cooperation of the NYA. If plans go through, another building at the airport will be needed, and NAA officials are looking around to see whether they can find a steel frame building that can be moved out there.

Incidentally, work on the new hanger at the port is being delayed by the non-arrival of steel, already three weeks overdue.

• • •

Aftermath of army officer's criticism of condition of airport: NAA President Kann is seeking, through State Aeronautics Director Earl Johnson, to obtain slice of funds from federal bill, now before senate. Bill gives generous assistance from federal government for construction of runways, etc.

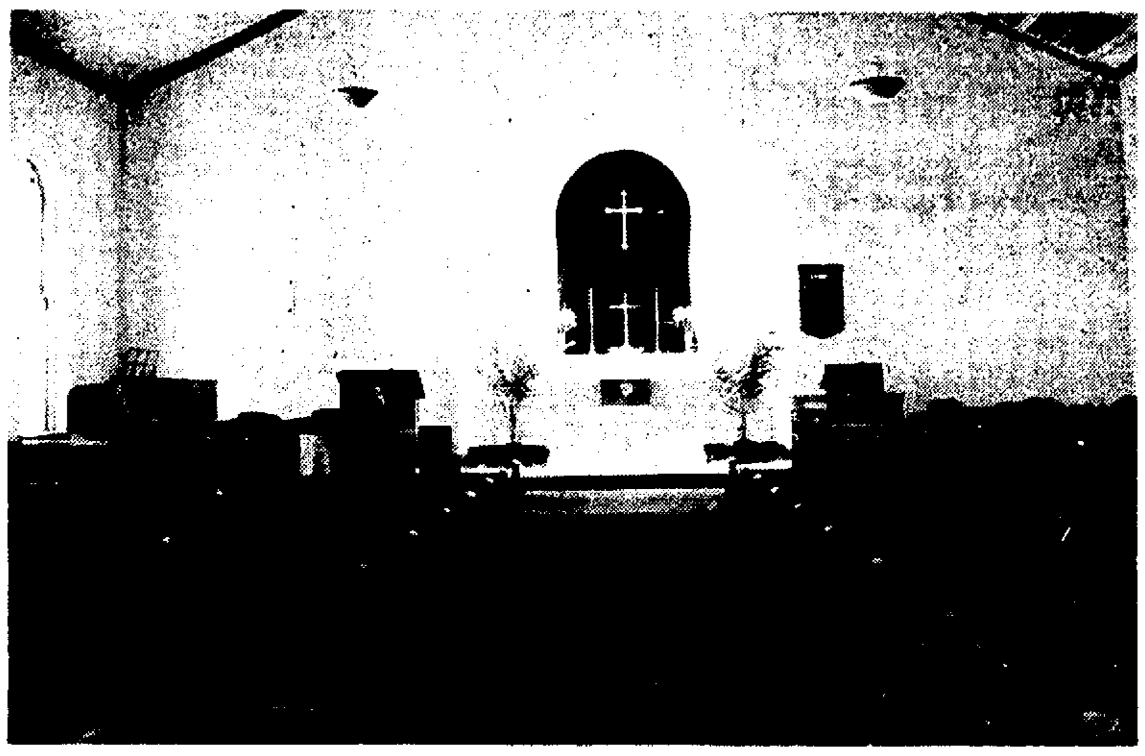
Re-built Church Dedicated



MILLERSBURG—Interior of Trinity Lutheran church, Millersburg, was dedicated yesterday. The interior was entirely rebuilt and refurnished after fire ravished it last Jan. 5. The splendor of the present furnishings and decorations surpasses that of the previous interior. The altar is made of Briar Hill stone and bears significant carvings. Placed on the altar are a cross and brass appointments. The altar background is of wine velure bearing a 30-inch brass cross. The organ was bought from and installed by the Schantz Organ company, at a cost of $2,000.

EUROPEAN DYES NOT NECESSARY

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Textile mills are not having the difficulty in obtaining dyestuffs that they experienced in the last war, according to R. E. Rose, technical research director of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company's Deepwater plant.

"This country can get along without imports of dyes from Europe," he said. "Our total imports before the war began amounted to only 3 per cent of the dyestuffs used."

OLD MYSTERY

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y.—(U.P.)— City fathers are investigating the mystery of the City Hall clock. When the edifice was built a place was provided for a large clock in the facade. The timepiece never appeared and for 42 years the large round hole has housed only pigeons.

County Board Pays $330 For Animal Losses.

Payment of animal claims totaling $330 for the second quarter of this year, a big increase over the first quarter, had been authorized today by the Richland county commissioners.

Commissioners said the fact that sheep and other farm animals are permitted to run loose in warm weather probably resulted in the heavier loss of animals killed by marauding dogs. Claims for the first quarter of the year amounted to $117.

The largest individual claim paid during the second quarter by the county went to H. D. Mowrey of Jefferson township who lost sheep valued at $96. Edward Pfeifer of Sharon township was paid $60.

Animal claims are paid from funds collected from the sale of dog tags.

Estimates of the London County Council for 1940-41 provide £9,000,000 ($40,400,000) for maintenance of civil defenses.

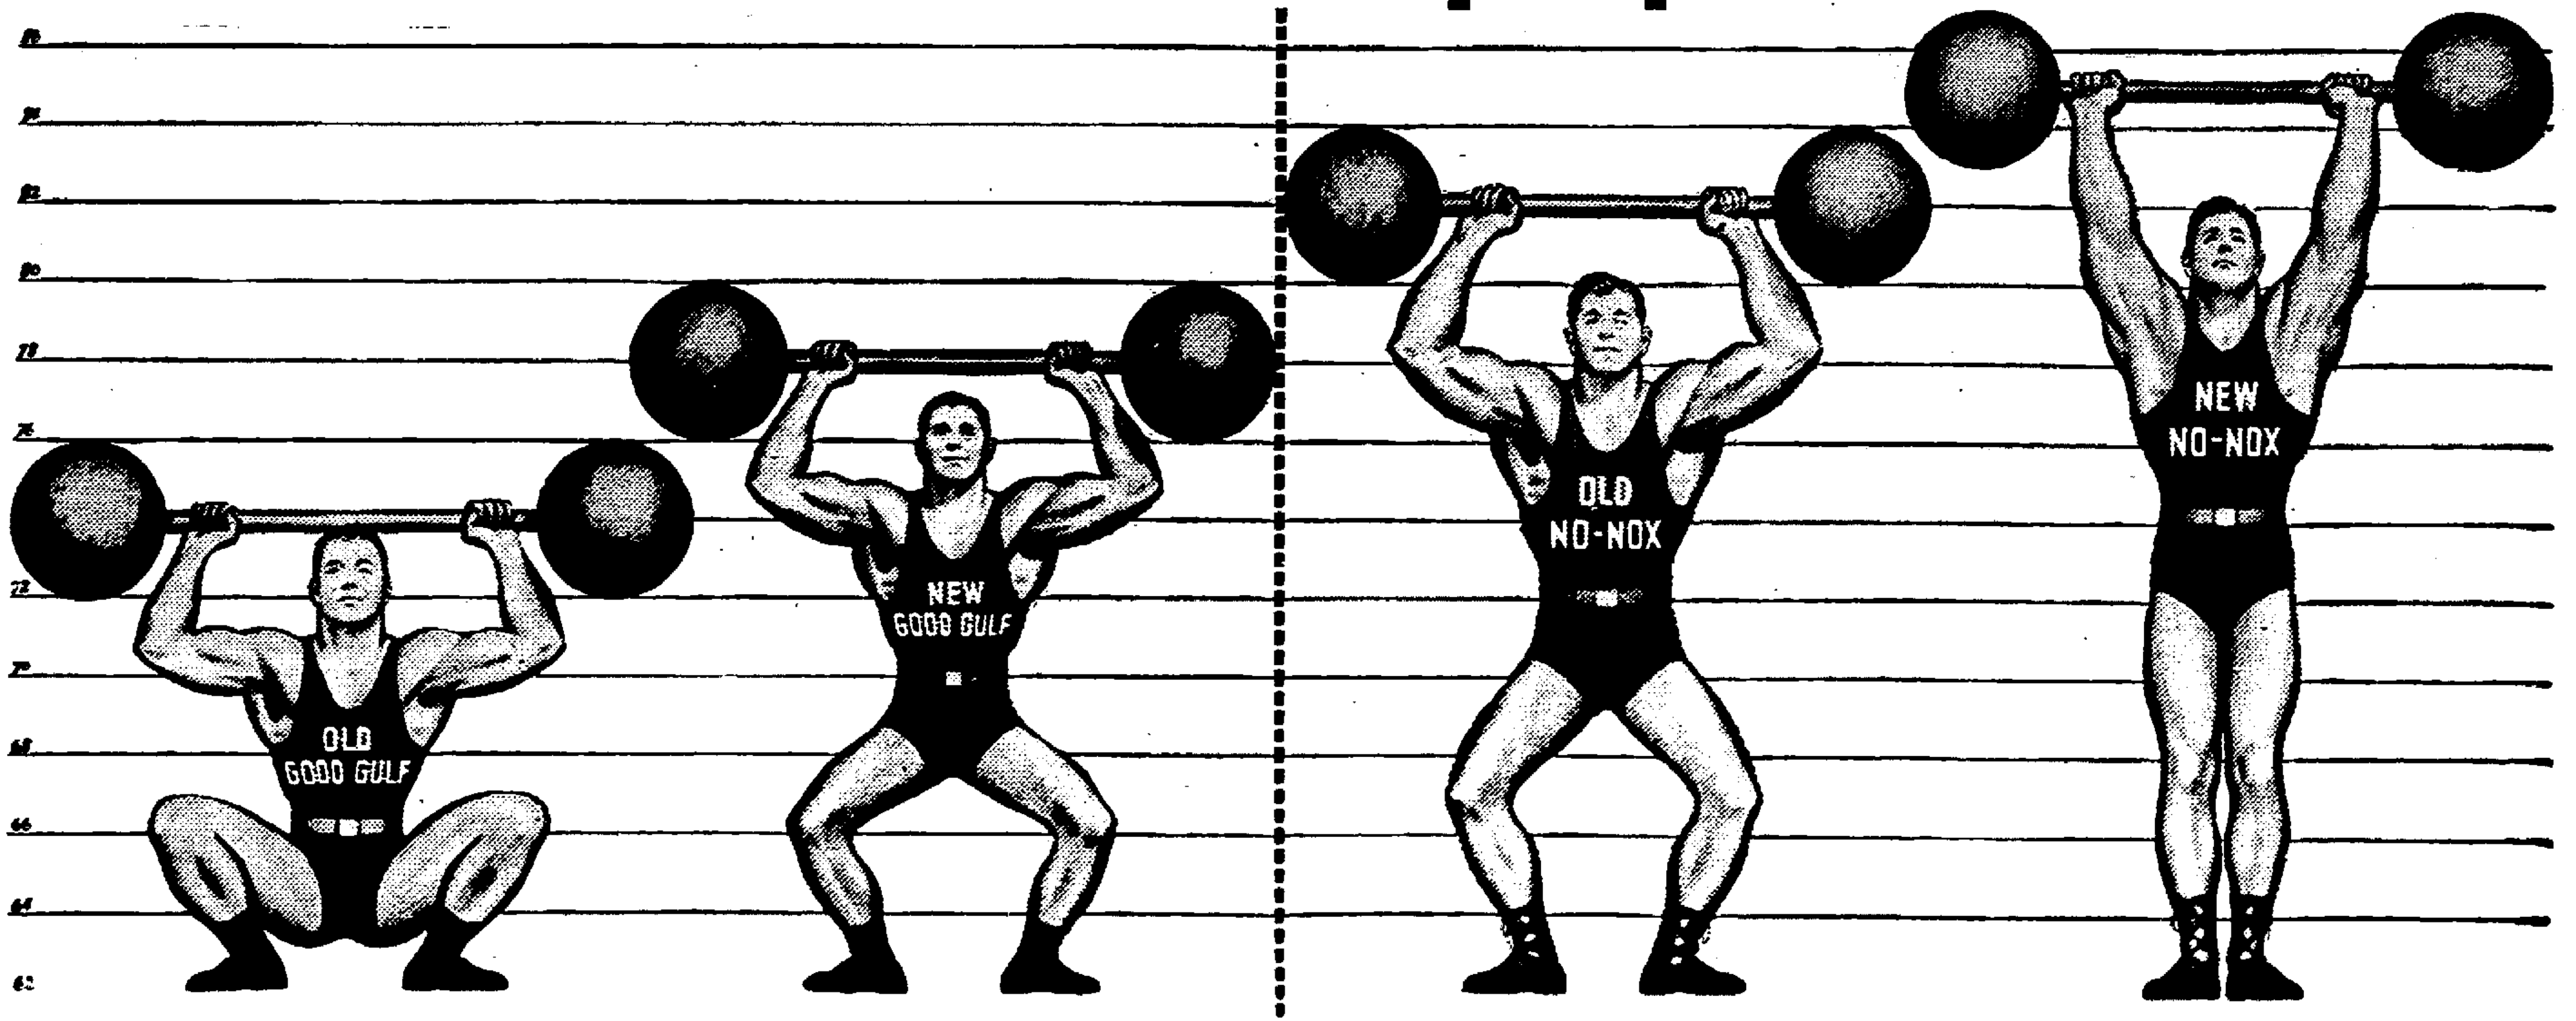
Here's what's happened to Gulf Gasolines shown in four simple pictures



There is a scientific test, employed by us and by many of our competitors, that is used to determine the anti-knock value of a motor fuel. According to that test, the figure above represents the old GOOD GULF—famous as one of the finest regular gasolines in America!

But look at the NEW GOOD GULF! This is a fair comparative measurement of the tremendous improvement in this great gasoline. GOOD GULF is now enormously improved without a penny's added cost to you . . . will give superb performance in your modern, high-compression engine.

An equally sensational improvement has been made in GULF NO-NOX. This figure shows the rating of the old NO-NOX, then one of the super-fuels of its day and KNOCKPROOF under all normal driving conditions.

Now look at the NEW NO-NOX! Tremendously better than even the old NO-NOX . . . and far, far ahead of any regular gasoline sold anywhere in America today! NO REGULAR GASOLINE—NOT ONE—CAN COMPARE WITH GULF NO-NOX!

Better try these Better Fuels!

Impediments To World Peace

WHATEVER other differences in views may exist among citizens of the United States, there is practically unanimity of desire that this country be kept out of war—if it can be done.

This is an entirely nonpartisan attitude, based on realization of the horrors of war, with necessary sacrifice of human lives, destruction of property, and suffering inflicted on innocent victims.

If a way can be found to maintain peace in the United States, no effort should be regarded as too great to bring this accomplishment. But with the war madness that has recently swept Europe and is now spreading to other parts of the world, the future for this country cannot be foreseen. The only safe course under present conditions is to be prepared, as adequately as possible, for whatever may occur.

When President Roosevelt spoke, a few days ago, of the five objectives which must be realized before permanent world peace can be assured, his remarks were labeled as "philosophic," rather than realistic, and neatly expressed the high idealism which his administrative policies have consistently reflected.

Here are the five objectives: (1) Freedom from fear—removal of weapons which cause fear; (2) Freedom of information—uncensored expression and distribution of information; (3) Freedom of religion—worldwide; (4) Freedom of expression—in voicing opinions; (5) Freedom from want—by removal of cultural and commercial barriers between nations.

There can be no argument as to the desirability of these objectives. They present an alluring picture of a world freed from those human imperfections which are still too much in evidence to be ignored.

It is upon such a thesis that the philosophy of the so-called "New Deal" has pursued its visionary course through seven years—without regard for the human frailties which bar the way to Utopia.

Much more sensible and sound is the American Legion idea of building up American defense to the point of national safety against aggression. These veterans of the World war are showing wise and valiant leadership in helping to awaken American citizens to the urgent need for adequate preparedness.

As To 'Speaking' On the Street

TIMES have also changed from an earlier day idea when a formal introduction was considered an essential preliminary to establishing acquaintanceship.

In a recent etiquette hint, in this page's Grab Bag feature, it was said: "If someone speaks to you on the street, don't turn a 'frozen face' to him or her. Even if you know him but slightly, or do not remember him at all, a pleasant smile and bow won't hurt you and may do him a great deal of good."

The trait of affability comes naturally to some people and with others must be cultivated. Carried to excess it may become obnoxious, but a pleasant manner toward casual acquaintances, or even toward strangers, it a fine attribute.

It frequently happens that younger persons recognize older men and women whom they meet on the street, and speak pleasantly. Even if the older person cannot "place" the younger one there should be suitable response to the greeting, and, if convenient, inquiry as to the identity of the young person, who may be the son or daughter of an old-time friend.

Relieve us, however, as much as possible, from the inane "Yes sir" reply to a "Good morning," or other courteous greeting.

Fires You Might Have Started

DID you ever think about the fires that might have been started as a result of carelessness? Almost everyone has come within an ace of starting fires on more occasions than it is pleasant to count.

Remember the time you put a penny back of a fuse to get the electricity flowing? You were lucky that time too, as the house didn't burn down. There was a very good chance, however, that it would.

And how about all the odds and ends of junk you've stored away in attics, closets, basements, etc., figuring to get rid of them on some future day? Accumulations like that may go on for years and do no harm—or, if the breaks are against you, they may start or feed a destructive blaze any minute.

And don't forget those occasions on which you took it for granted that you'd get away with postponing necessary heating, wiring, chimney and similar repairs until another time.

Haven for Former Rulers

ROYALTY in the past has often gone visiting for special events—coronations, weddings, silver jubilees, and so on. But the present gathering of ex-rulers in London is anything but a happy party.

There are the Emperor Haile Selassie, last independent ruler of Ethiopia, Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of a republic called Czecho-Slovakia, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, King Haakon of Norway, the former president of Poland, King Zog of Albania with his wife and baby, three former French premiers, and some Belgian government leaders.

It may be wondered if sometime later the New World may become the haven for many who once occupied places of power in their own countries.

Shrinking Field for Diplomats

DIPLOMACY is another field in which opportunities for the larger and freer life are shrinking. The Berlin government has informed foreign representatives in that capital that all foreign diplomats must be withdrawn from Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg by July 15. They are not needed because Germany has taken over those countries and handles their foreign problems itself.

This incident throws a sudden, new light upon the fate of the neighboring democracies "freed from liberty" by Nazi Germany, also the manifest destiny of many other nations in Europe and Asia as the dictators' juggernauts roll on.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We have a solid black tomcat at our house whose name is Friday. Like some people we know, he hates daylight. He likes to lie indoors and drowse all day, because, for one thing, he is scared of dogs. But at night he prowls. He goes and comes all night.

He gets in and out of the house by means of a second-story window. A lattice frame with ivy growing to it runs from this window to the ground, and he is very agile at climbing this lattice. He goes down head-first for about two rungs, swings around, and leaps to the porch. Going up he is a black streak; he climbs headfirst, like a squirrel.

The only bad part about all this is his bad habit of bringing in wonderful things that he finds to play with—sometimes it is a bird. . . . Once he brought in a rag doll. Where he got it I haven't the faintest idea. When he brings in a new trophy he struts and arches his back and rubs against your legs until you pick him up and congratulate him. If you don't make a big fuss over him and tell him what a bold hunter he is he bites you on the leg.

* * *

BUT Friday is in disgrace at our house these days. The other night there was a scream. . . . It sounded like a child's frightened, piercing cry. . . . Then up the lattice and in through the window came Friday. . . . He was carrying a baby rabbit. He tried not to hurt it. But he did hurt it. It was about 4 a. m. . . . I switched on the light. . . . There it was, the little rabbit, probably two weeks old. Friday wanted it to run, so he could catch it again. . . . He wanted to be congratulated, and petted. . . . He purred and strutted. . . . I gave him a dirty look and took the little rabbit downstairs. . . . Though clad only in pajamas and slippers, I took it to a field about two blocks away and left it in some bushes under a dogwood tree. . . . On the way back a police car passed, and if I hadn't known one of the cops I would certainly have been taken in. . . . Walking around at 4 a. m. in pajamas is not routine in our town.

When I got back to the house Friday was pacing the floor. . . . He wanted that rabbit. He wanted to be petted, and fed. . . . Instead, I lectured him coldly, threw him into the cellar, and closed the door without so much as a saucer of cream.

I'm going to keep him in all week.

But he is a fine tomcat.

* * *

AS A matter of fact all our animals are giving us trouble. We have a white pup, as white as Friday is black. Its name is Thursday. Thursday left the house with me the other morning and ran cheerfully after a man who was passing. The man was frightened and kicked at her.

I said, "Hey, don't kick that dog."

With that he turned on me and gave me such a dresssing down as I have seldom had. "I ought to punch you in the nose," he cried, "letting ferocious animals leap at people like that. What good are they! They all ought to be killed. I'm going to report you to the police. Do you think I want RABBIS?"

It was one of those moments when I thought I had best throw up my dukes and defend myself. But suddenly the man turned away, leaning against a telephone post, violently ill at his stomach. Nerves? Probably. But Thursday is only a pup, only a little girl pup, and she wouldn't hurt a flea, not even a baby rabbit, which is more—far more—than I could ever say of Friday.

Close Check on Incoming Aliens

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

ATTORNEY GENERAL ROBERT JACKSON is no more than getting barely started yet on his new duty of supervising the admission of aliens into the United States. It's a justice departmental sideline, however, which promises to keep him pretty busy before long.

The job was more or less a matter of routine while the labor department handled it, as it did until very recently, dating from away back into the distant past.

Those were the days when we really had immigrants. That is to say, they didn't come here from overseas with any idea of producing an influence of one sort or another in the United States. They came as workers. Few of them remained among us as aliens; generally speaking, they joined us as naturalized Americans as soon as they could.

Thoroughly Americanized.

Letting them in and assimilating them very properly was a task for the labor department to handle, because labor then was what they were. There was a long time when we needed them if they were the right kind, as most of them were.

They needed a little sorting out, perhaps, and there's no doubt that some of it was rather carelessly done, permitting a few undesirables to trickle into our midst. Still, in the main, these folks constituted an excellent class, which wasn't long in becoming thoroughly Americanized.

By the time the World war rolled around we were beginning to think we had nearly enough of this increasing element of new citizenship. It wasn't that we found any fault with the quality of our would-be newcomers, but American labor was starting to complain that fresh arrivals were developing into an excess of competition. Not only our original American workers said so. Comparatively recent foreigners, who already had been assimilated, said so also.

This led to immigration restrictions. They weren't particularly designed to keep out undesirables. Applicants for admission weren't ordinarily rated as personally undesirable "perse." The argument was that it was undesirable for us to let in many more prospective workers at a juncture when we already had a pretty large contingent of unemployed already on hand.

An Economic Problem.

It wasn't a political problem. It was economic.

At that point our alien exclusion laws were somewhat on a par with our protective tariff legislation.

Our protective tariff regulations weren't intended to imply that foreign-made goods aren't all right on their merits. Instead, their purport is that we can do our own manufacturing here at home ,and that our manufacturers are entitled to practically a monopoly of our domestic markets, without overseas stuff horning in, in competition with them.

Similarly our unionized workers maintained that they were entitled to protection against the admission of still more foreign labor in competition with the former, thus depressing Yankee wage schedules.

There have been economists who have insisted that we have overdone our protective policy, as to foreign-made goods. There likewise have been critics who have insisted that we have overdone immigration restrictions.

Through our customs service, the treasury department has attended and still attends to our tariff collections. Which is o. k. It's an economic task and the treasury's function is economic.

The Labor Angle.

Until very lately the labor department has had the management of immigration restrictions. That was o. k., too, while the immigration angle of the situation remained purely economic—exclusively a labor issue.

But it's that no longer. There's no labor influx at present. However, there are plenty of propagandists and other Nazi, Fascist and Communistic "fixers" doing their utmost to find footholds in the United States. They're much harder to exclude than any poor, ordinary would-be working immigrant ever was.

These boys come with first-rate-looking official credentials, as vice consuls, diplomatic attaches and other functionaries, who are mighty difficult to turn down unceremoniously. The labor department hasn't the machinery to do it, or even to identify the suspects effectively.

That's why President Roosevelt switched the immigration restriction enforcement function from the comparatively helpless labor department to Attorney General Jackson's outfit, with J. Edgar Hoover's undercover bureau, and all the rest of the machinery necessary to do a classy piece of international detective work.

New Deal Spending.

To date the New Deal has spent more than 6 billions of dollars while federal income for the same period was an aggregate of 34 billions.

Since Mr. Roosevelt took office in March, 1933, pledged to reduce federal expenditures by not less than 25 per cent, the federal government has spent a total of 22½ billions more than has been taken in from all revenue sources.

These figures would still be alarming if there were any prospect that in the new fiscal year expenditures could be reduced and progress made toward a balanced budget.

But this is only a hopeless dream in view of the heavy spending for defense and rearmament authorized for the coming 12 months, not one cent of which appears in the present swollen public debt.

The cost of the greatest defense program our nation has ever undertaken must be piled on top of the squandered billions which we owe for seven years of New Deal profligacy.—Columbus Dispatch

Cherry Picking

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A FEW days ago we saw two trees of cherries along the road and found them tempting. We tasted two or three. They were juicy sweet blackhearts. I went back to seek the owner. Today the two older boys and I picked cherries on the shares.

The trees are along a graveled country road that runs along the ridge of hilltop like a skyline. The owner's buildings nestle far down the hillside. Long wooded slopes are near about, and three cows grazed in a low grassy meadow that seemed to be held in place by the edges of the timber.

From where we stood, the valley stretched for miles and the basement dwelling of the farmer appeared no larger than a summer kitchen while slow moving cattle appeared like tiny calves.

Strong wind from the northwest and dark banks of rolling cloud prophesied storms. Our long ladder stood uncertainly against the aged tossing branches and to ascend amid the maze of waving twigs seemed a bit precarious. But the abundance of dark glistening fruit was a challenge and it was a happy feeling to stand on the ladder at the top of this big tree and pick luscious cherries which hung so close about that I contacted several with my mouth and ate them without benefit of fingers. Heavy gusts of wind swung me back and forth without any effort on my part. In fact it felt like floating on the summer wind, without a pilot.

From this high place, I looked down upon the wooded hills and widening valleys. I saw my neighbors build their wagonloads of hay, cultivate waving corn; mow heavy clover with slow-moving teams; haul gravel in trucks like toys, with clouds of dust that eddied far behind.

The oldest boy's bucket tippled from its hook and fell with an empty rattle and the sifting of soft cherries through abundant leaves. I heard his wail of anger and disappointment. "I thought that branch was green, Daddy, but it was dead—and it broke. Now all the cherries are down there in the long grass. Shall I start over?"

When evening came, we loaded our treasure, with the ladders, on the car and went down the hill to divide the fruit. The farmer came out to meet us. I saw a great wide smile spread over his serious face as he took a look at the youngsters beside me. Their mouths and cheeks were stained with the dark cherry juice, dried on.

They looked like Indian warriors.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—To say that the Willkie-McNary ticket worried Democratic chiefs is to put it mildly. The real fact is that they are scared stiff.

Not only are they fearful of the campaigning effectiveness of the powerful GOP combination, but they are even more disturbed by their own state of disorganization.

Because of the serious rift between Jim Farley and the New Dealers, the Democratic national committee hasn't functioned for months. Whatever battles were waged for the Democratic party originated from outside the committee. All of the anti-Willkie-McNary blasts in the senate and house came from independent Democrats.

Meanwhile every GOP fusillade on Capitol Hill has behind it the rejuvenated and fast-clicking Republican national committee.

Another thing that alarms insiders is the effect of the president's strong pro-Ally policy on large blocs of voters. German, Italian and certain Irish elements are hostile, and fairly sure to vote Republican. Similarly, John L. Lewis' vendetta is certain to cost votes.

Lewis speaks for only a minority of the CIO. Not one important union in the organization has endorsed his stand. However, he has destroyed the effectiveness of Labor's Nonpartisan League as a campaign force, and in 1936 this was an important factor in several key industrial centers.

All in all, it looks like very stormy weather for the Democrats in November.

* * *

Loves Hot Air.

SUMMER heat has come to Washington, but the president's only air-conditioning method is to take off his coat and hang it over the back of a chair.

The executive offices of the White House are air-conditioned, but the president will have none of it in his office. He keeps the vents turned off and opens the French doors looking out on the rose gardens and south grounds. This, and the coat removal, are enough for him.

In the White House proper, separate air-cooling units have been established in the various rooms. (This was preferred to air-conditioning, so as to avoid tearing out walls to introduce new vents.) But the president at first declined to have even a cooling unit in his rooms.

Finally he was persuaded to accept it, with the understanding that it would not be turned on when he was there.

The same is true of the presidential yacht, Potomac. Air conditioning equipment has just been installed throughout the boat, but the president insists that it be turned off in his room.

Note—The same preference for nature's hot air is expressed by Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles in the state department. Their rooms are the only offices in the building which have cooling units, and neither makes use of it.

* * *

Nazi Revolution.

WHEN Nazi troops marched into Poland, September 1, 1939, Adolf Berle, assistant secretary of state and Roosevelt brain truster, remarked: "This is the beginning of the world revolution."

The war — or revolution — has now been in progress for ten months and every report coming back from Germany indicates the truth of Berle's words.

For what most people do not realize about Germany is that the Nazis are fighting with a crusading revolutionary fervor. They are staging a social revolution. Their redistribution of wealth in Germany makes Stalin's look sick.

Today in Germany the free business man has almost vanished. He is working for the government. All his raw materials come from the government. His credit is arranged by the government. Exchange is regulated by the government, and prices are manipulated almost daily by the government.

Today in Germany also, the industrialist who owns an automobile does not dare to drive it to work. It would be taken away from him, and he would be hissed off the streets. Only Nazi officials ride in cars. Others ride bicycles.

Real fact is that Germany has borrowed Karl Marx back from Russia and made it work.

* * *

Bomb Plots.

LOST in the shuffle of war news was what happened to the Christian Front members, recently acquitted and released after a trial in which they were charged with conspiring to overthrow the government of the United States.

After they were released, one of the first things some of them did was to go to the clerk of the court in Brooklyn and demand return of their guns.

Immediately thereafter several bomb plots were unearthed in New York. Most of the bombs were crudely manufactured and failed to explode. The papers reported two that went off, but gave the others no publicity.

However, there was no question but that the bomb epidemic resulted from the feeling on the part of various subversive elements that the acquittal of the Christian Fronters gave them immunity.

Merry-Go-Round.

APPROXIMATELY one-third of the 1,000 delegates at the GOP convention were World war veterans and all the candidates had vets playing leading roles in their campaigns. . . . Harry Colmer of Kansas, former American Legion commander, was active for Willkie, and Ben Doris of Oregon, one of the three remaining Legion "king makers," worked for Taft. . . . Assisting Doris was chunky little Karl Witchen of Cleveland, who managed the only Legion convention that didn't go in the red. . . . Senator Rush Holt, buck-toothed West Virginia anti-New Deal Democrat, recently defeated for renomination, is quietly aiding the campaign of Tom Sweeney, the Republican nominee. . . . At the Philadelphia convention hard-hitting Frank Waltman, GOP press director and former Washington newsman, had a hard time staying with the bigwigs. Waltman itched to get down in the press rows with his former colleagues. . . . Unreconstructed Rebel.

South Carolina's Democratic delegation is pledged to a third term but Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith is still waging his personal vendetta against the president.

Shortly after Pat Harrison declared for Roosevelt, Smith roared up to the Mississippi senator while he was chatting with Senator Bilbo, also from Mississippi, and said, "Well, I see you've joined the blankety-blank opportunists."

"What do you mean, Ed?" asked Harrison quietly.

"He's probably referring to your coming out for a third term," cut in Bilbo. "Well, I have, too. What of it?"

"Nobody would expect anything different from you," snapped Smith. "You're an expert at playing politics."

"Well, well, well, look who's talking," laughed Bilbo derisively. "Smith, since when have you become a statesman? You've never done anything in your life but play politics—and I'm not saying what kind."

Smith ignored this haymaker and turned to Harrison. "Pat," he said, "I never figured you would forget your principles and endorse the dictatorial ambitions of that man in the White House. Especially after the way he opposed you in your contest with Barkley for the floor leadership."

"Listen, Ed," exclaimed Harrison, "get this straight—I harbor no feeling against the president on that account. That's water over the dam and he had a perfect right to express a preference. Moreover, I am not letting personal matters bias me at a time like this, when the country is facing one of the gravest crises in its history."

"Okay," sputtered Smith, "if that's the way you feel about it, then we're through. I was your friend but from now on we travel different paths. You go your way and I'll go mine."

"That's fine. That just suits me perfectly," Harrison grinned as Smith, blowing like a steam engine, stomped away.

Talkative Naval Officers.

Navy officers may shortly be prohibited from writing letters to newspapers.

The ban is being seriously considered as a result of a letter written by Lt. Commander Jackson R. Tate, air officer of the Carrier Yorktown. Published in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin and the Pensacola (Fla.) Journal, the communication vigorously defended the airmanship of Admiral Charles A. Blakely, former commander of the Aircraft Battle Force and Tate's former commanding officer.

Navy heads didn't mind this, but what did cause them to sputter was Tate's disclosure in his lengthy letter of two items of important military value: One, that the Yorktown is equipped with catapults for fast launching of planes; two, that many naval flyers have never actually used live bombs in combat maneuvers.

Army Studies War Control of Industrial Plants

COOPERATION FOR DEFENSE WORK PRAISED

Proposed Legislation Termed Safeguard for Future By Officials.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The army, it was learned today, is considering seeking legislation that would enable it to compel manufacturers to accept orders for national defense material

It was emphasized that no final decision has been reached The army feels industry at present is co-operating excellently, but the authority may be sought as a safeguard for the future.

Officials already have drawn up a tentative draft of the proposed legislation. It has not yet been approved by Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson, nor has it been submitted to President Roosevelt

Johnson, however, confirmed that studies of such legislation are being made

Johnson said that private industry is "co-operating 100 per cent and doing a grand job" in the defense program, and that there might not be any need for such drastic legislation.

This plan, if undertaken, would supplement another move to speed up essential war production which the defense commission indicated that Mr. Roosevelt might take soon. It was learned Saturday that the president may issue an executive order empowering the government to take priority on domestic and foreign orders already in the hands of the manufacturers involving materials and machines considered necessary for this nation's defense

The proposed legislation was drafted after an intensive study by army officers of shortcomings in the preparedness program and steps required to correct them. Some officers believed that some sort of control over industry to accelerate defense production is essential as a companion step to some form of compulsory military training to assure "complete preparedness"

They explained that under the present law the government cannot require a manufacturer to take a national defense contract unless he wishes.

Official studies show that it will require at least three months even by making the best speed possible and slashing all red tape, to place the present defense orders in private industry.

HALT RUMOR

Find Hitler Doesn't Have Detroit 'Phone Book.

DETROIT—(UP)—The Michigan Bell Telephone company, after long and patient research, has tracked down and killed a rumor that intrigued Detroiters for several days.

Report said that Adolf Hitler had requested and been sent a copy of the Detroit telephone directory, which alarmists firmly believed would provide him with vital information.

Several people were envisioning the arrival of spies and attendant sabotage when the telephone company cleared the mystery Careful check, an official said, showed that the Deutsche Reichpost always receives a copy of the directory, as do similar companies in 72 other nations.

Deutsche Reichpost altered its address, however, and the last volume was sent to 40 Adolf Hitler street in Dusseldorf, Germany That's how the rumor started, the company said and now couldn't it just quietly die.

ROLL THEIR OWN

Montana Highway Patrolmen Make Ammunition.

HELENA, Mont. — (INS) — Montana highway patrolmen are "rolling their own" ammunition.

Taking a lesson from old-time marksmen who "built" their own cartridges, the patrolmen are turning out ammunition at the rate of about 5,000 shells a month.

Supervisor Lou C. Boedlicker said the plan, in operation at Montana's four highway patrol divisions, had cut ammunition costs materially and provided an interesting hobby for officers.

Bullets are molded in a special mold, then "sized" and lubricated in a clamp device. Next, primers are replaced in casings, powder measured in and lead set in the cases.

Cartridges cases from used shells are carefully hoarded by the patrolmen and turned in at headquarters The Federal Bureau of Investigation has donated casings from time to time, as well.

SENATE OPENS DEBATE OVER KNOX-STIMSON

Confirmation Seems Assured In Spite of Opposition By Isolationists.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The senate debated the nomination of Republicans Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox to President Roosevelt's cabinet today. Their confirmation appeared assured, but isolation senators planned to make the debate a thorough discussion of foreign policy.

Senate Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley said debate may last two days. He predicted that not more than 20 votes would be cast against Stimson and not more than 30 against Knox.

Stimson, 73-year-old secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet and secretary of war under Taft, won a 14-to-3 endorsement from the senate military affairs committee last week to be Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of war. Knox, 66 and the 1936 Republican vice-presidential nominee, was approved, 9 to 5, by the naval affairs committee to be secretary of the navy.

Sens. Edwin C. Johnson, D, Colo., and Rush D Holt, D, W Va, are expected to lead the senate floor attack upon the two nominees. Some Republicans, like Arthur H Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, probably will join them.

Stimson and Knox have been accused by Johnson and Holt of being "war mongers" and "interventionists." Both nominees testified last week that their aid-to-Great Britain policies did not contemplate sending American troops to fight abroad.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt awaited final estimates from army and navy advisers before writing a new request for approximately $5,000,000,000 in cash and contractual authority for land, sea and air defenses. The request is expected to reach congress Wednesday or Thursday—just before it recesses for the Democratic national convention next week.

Modest Summer Play Suit

Exposed to the sun, but not too exposed, is this summer girl in a play suit of denim. Her shorts are knee-length, her middy blouse top fits rather close at the waistline. The trim fit will last as long as the suit, because the fabric has been treated to control shrinkage to 1 per cent.

Brief News Items Regarding Events Of Past, Future

The mid-summer lethargy of a warm July day apparently settled upon everyone in social and club circles, and we dig here, call there, and inquire some place else for little bits of news about the plans being made for future activities of organizations, late summer arrangements, and vacation plans.

So here we offer a potpourri of what has happened over the long week-end holiday, and what is scheduled in the days to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dickson, Possum Run road, entertained yesterday with a steak dinner at their home honoring the birthday of their son-in-law, Clark Young.

Week-ending in Bellville and Mansfield were Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Nickerson (Genevieve Scott) of Lansing, Mich. The couple visited Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hyatt and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Shafer.

The American Legion Bridge club will meet tomorrow at the Legion home for bridge. Mrs. Hollis Moorhead and Mrs. Harry Uplinger will be the hostesses.

The younger set certainly isn't being neglected this summer. Mrs. G. C. Young is really busy with her plans for the dances being given for the Junior high school age children. Another in the series is being held Wednesday evening at the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m.

Another event scheduled for the current week is the meeting of the St. Peter's Sewing circle at North Lake park. The affair will be an all-day picnic Thursday with a noon luncheon.

The skin is a complex organ containing millions of tiny glands which secrete perspiration and oil. Every day, summer and winter, the sweat glands give off about a quart of perspiration. The oil glands exude a secretion that makes the skin flexible and waterproof. These secretions also hold dirt, bacteria, dead skin cells, and odors. To remove them, thorough washing of the body with soap and water, at least once a day, is necessary.

Local Residents Go on Vacations, Visitors In City

Summertime is definitely the season that all persons toss their traveling kits in the car or on train, bus or plane and head to distant places to renew old friendships and make new ones. Two former residents, popular young people in Lutheran circles here, returned for a brief visit.

Engelhardt, the former assistant pastor of the First Lutheran church, and his wife, formerly Katherine Oates of Shelby and a school teacher here, are visiting with Mrs. Engelhardt's mother, Mrs. Nellie Oates, Shelby. WEDDINGS CONTINUE IN MANSFIELD AREA

Quiet Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Gladys Shingleton, James H. Stroud Before Altar of Park Avenue Church.

JUNE was the traditional month of brides in Mansfield as in the land all about, and in spite of the chilly mornings and rainy afternoons many a young couple exchanged vows before church altars and in their homes. However, although slackening somewhat, the nuptial parade still continues with many affairs of general interest.

As we have said before the summer is destined to be dotted with a number of pleasant nuptial events, and marriages of recent date are also being announced at more or less regular intervals.

In a quiet ceremony read Saturday afternoon by Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, before the church altar Miss Gladys Shingleton, R. D. 5, became the bride of James H. Stroud, 92 South Diamond street.

For her marriage the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Shingleton, wore a powder blue and white crepe dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She attended the Mansfield Senior high school.

Following the 2 o'clock ceremony a family dinner was served at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Stroud are now at home at the South Diamond street address. Mr. Stroud is employed at the Hughes-Keenan company.

Middle-Age Romance Heady

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I have been married 20 years, but found soon after the ceremony that I had make a grave mistake, because there was ten years difference in our ages. This, I think, is the beginning of incompatibility in the majority of cases.

"After the birth of my first child I kept busy with him, and then two years later the second one came. But I became very discontented. My husband was a very good man, a home-loving hermit and was very good when money was plentiful. I took up singing on the radio. He objected to this. Then we had another youngster. He became interested in a girl, lost his money and position.

"At this time we boarded out the children and took a room. I got a job and he worked as a salesman When I discovered we were to have another baby, my husband disappeared. I took the children and went to live with my mother.

"After the fourth baby came, I had a letter from my husband begging me to take him back, which I finally did, and we started housekeeping again. But what a life. We have separate rooms. He speaks when he feels like it, which is seldom. Berates me for being a poor housekeeper. I work three days a week, the children are grown up now, and while they are lots of fun I crave companionship of a husband.

"And now I'm in love with a man who has everything in common with me. Our likes and dislikes are the same, and I really believe this is my real fate. What shall I do? I feel I should have married him years ago.

"UNDECIDED."

It seems from parts of your letter—far too long to print — that you haven't always given your marriage a fair trial, persuading yourself from the beginning that your husband's age made the marriage incompatible.

And now you find yourself in love with a man whom you say you "should have married years ago." He "has brought out fine traits in your character which for a long time had been submerged under a nasty temper and selfishness."

But isn't this romance, of which you write me so vividly, the effect of a late-blooming love affair? Believe it or not, middle-aged romance so often has a headier quality than young love. And then, if it is not "fate," as you call it, the disillusionment is more bitter.

I'm putting on the table all the cards you have given me. In the final anaysis, it's up to you.

You are free to decide, and I hope that whatever your choice may be, it will be a happy one.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The chauffeur of Jack Leslie's car halted for only the fraction of a second at the command for silence from the gangster in the other car. Then he plunged forward in the direction of Leslie's hiding place.

"Hey Boss!" he called raucously, but Leslie's voice, venomous as the hiss of a snake's silenced him.

"Get back where I told you and shut your trap," Leslie said.

The man stopped short, shrugged his shoulders, and went back to Leslie's hidden car. He barely had reached its shelter when two cars rounded a turn a few rods down the road and came swooping to the rendezvous.

The four occupants of the first car were the men of my father's organization who had protested the extra men of the gangsters and taken two of them away. Lillian's eyebrows and mine rose in mutual inquiry at their swift return. They had said they would deposit the men with friends "on the road to Southampton" for safe keeping until they should give the word for release, but we suspected that the "friends" were my father's men in the two cars who were in ambush down the next road waiting to insure the safe return to the farmhouse of the box containing Queen Olga's emeralds, and the impersonators of Noel and Mary.

But the second car was the one which held our fascinated—and horrified—attention. For seated in it, beside Watson and Blake, the two men who were impersonating Mary and Noel for the benefit of Leslie and his gangsters, were our husabnds.

Their faces were impassive, but I noticed that they were "taking turns" in watching the gangsters and the narrow road on which they had drawn up their car. Each in turn was leaning as unobtrusively as possible over the side of the car and looking at the dusty road.

For what were they looking? Was it possible—? my mental queries were stopped abruptly by the sudden pressure of Lillian's arm against mine. When I looked at her, her eyes signaled me to look at Jack Leslie.

He had taken an impetuous step forward as the cars drew up and then checked himself. I had noticed that with one part of my brain cells, but I had not looked at his face, and what I saw in it now chilled me.

There was avid gloating and anticipation in his face, as he looked at the disguised Watson who, he supposed, was Mary. But when his eyes turned upon Blake, in Noel's clothes and semblance, a look of cruelty, positively fiendish, twisted his facial muscles.

His presence, his watchfulness, his eagerness to get at the supposed Mary and Noel, presented a distinct problem of our own to Lillian and me. No one else of his entourage would penetrate the disguises of Watson and Blake, so well had Harry Underwood accomplished his task. But if once Jack Leslie came face to face with them, he would know their identity at once.

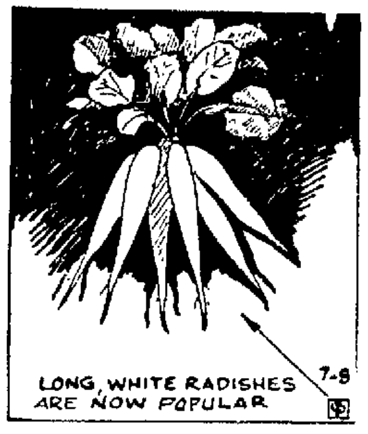
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



LONG, WHITE RADISHES ARE NOW POPULAR
7-8

WHITE RADISHES NOW THE WANTED VARIETIES

Radishes for home use should not be seeded all at one time and in long rows. When they mature faster than they can be eaten, and are therefore left in the ground, they become tough and unpalitable. It is best to sow short rows of radishes in the home garden and at appropriate intervals to have a continuous supply in fresh and tender condition.

White radishes have come into popularity and are now the wanted varieties. The long type of radishes shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph are also gaining in popularity. White Icicle is an exceptionally fine early variety. White Strassburg is also excellent for summer use since it remains firm and brittle longer than most other varieties. For late summer and fall, Giant Stuttgart is most desirable.

Winter radishes can be stored just like any other root-crop. They are somewhat sharper in flavor after storage, but can be eaten raw.

HOROSCOPE

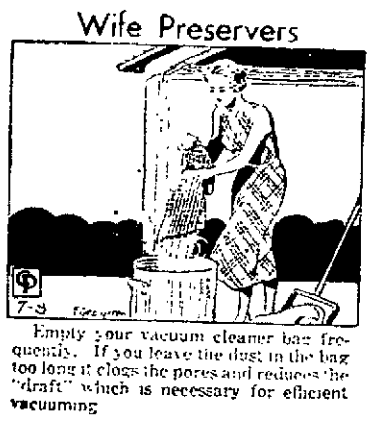
For Tuesday, July 9.

THE LUNAR transits for this day are excellent for assisting to a very practical and constructive program, in which the most desirable culminations are achieved by industry, resolute application, well-laid plans and executive ability.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of splendid opportunity for branching out into new fields of endeavor as well as giving stability to old projects, with the prospect of increasing the fortune and possessions.

A child born on this day may be endowed with an abundance of talents, energies and executive ability to enlist the support, friendship and esteem of those of prestige and position, to put over constructive and enduring projects.

Wife Preservers



Empty your vacuum cleaner bag frequently. If you leave the dust in the bag too long it clogs the pores and reduces the "draft" which is necessary for efficient vacuuming.

Legs Need Exercising Too

By MME. QUI VIVE

In the old Victorian days women were not supposed to have legs. An ankle was considered a revolting spectacle. It was scarcely respectable to be healthy. Corsets were so tightly harnessed that no beauty of the day could eat an adult-sized meal. It was fashionable to be just a poor weak woman, look ethereal, float through the air like thistledown. "Life with Father" has it all down pat.

When the short skirts came along more than a decade ago, women began to survey their legs. A pair of pretty legs was a consolation to those who did not qualify otherwise for the beauty race. In course of time skirt hems were lowered and the spindle shanks and fatted calves were hidden except during the bathing season. Fashion has again upped the hem. Girls and women who haven't pretty legs should cut their skirts accordingly. Not quite so high, if you please.

* * *

The same exercise that slices down plump underpinnings will fill out the skinnies. Muscle stimulation sweeps away fat cells and so reduces the over-developed; it also fills out fibers that have gone slack because of lack of exercises or not sufficient nutrition. The little slimpsies who can't make a record on the bath room scales should be fairly active, cook up a healthy appetite and stoke up on good chow. Normal weight makes for better health and attractive appearance. Standardized measurements make dressing no problem at all.

Swimming and tennis are excellent exercises for normalizing the figure. Swimming is less strenuous than tennis, is slower in producing results, but it makes a lot of lazy muscles work, muscles that have soldiered on the job.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

READING THE LEAD

When no suit bidding has influenced the matter, an opening honor lead against a No Trump contract proclaims possession usually of what students call an "honor combination." In this situation that means the possession of at least three of the highest six cards of the suit, at least two of which are "touching honors." The conventional lead is from the touching honors." It is the top of the touchers, except in the case of ace-king, when the king is chosen. The principal value of a good partner to read the holding of both the leader and the declarer much more accurately than could be done with a fourth-best lead.

North	East
♠ A 8 5	♠ 10 4 3
♥ A 6 2	♥ 9 8 6
♦ Q J 7 6	♦ 10 5 4
♣ 10 7 4	♣ 9 6 4 2

If South bid 1-No Trump, North 3-No Trumps and you have the East hand shown, study of an honor lead, in conjunction with your own holding and the North dummy, can be extremely informative.

A lead of the spade Q makes it clear your partner also has the J, has not the K, and possesses one other "honor combination" card, which can't be anything but the 9. So declarer has the K with one or two guards.

The heart J lead proclaims possession of the 10 and another "honor combination" card, not the Q, so it is positively the K. Declarer would surely have exactly three to the Q.

The diamond K lead advertises clearly that the declarer has three little cards, with no stopper, your partner holding A-K-9 and a little one.

The club Q shows also the J and A, so declarer has the K guarded once or twice, probably the latter.

There is just one standard "honor combination" lead which reaches lower into the deck than the 9. That is the J-10-8 combination, from which the J is led.

Note that A-Q-10, A-Q-9, A-J-9 and K-J-9 have no touching honors, therefore are not adapted to an honor lead. Since a fourth best from those conventionally denies three "honor combinations" cards, including touchers, it helps you to read a fourth-best lead more accurately. Also, with the hands shown, lead of the spade J, heart 10 or club J, not being in natural sequences, must be a short suit lead, easily readable to you.

Tomorrow's Problem.

♠ 9 8 6 5 4 3
♥ 8 6

♣ 10 4 3

	N.
♠ J 2 ♥ J 7 5 4 2 ♦ A K 5 4 ♣ 8 6	W. E. S.	♠ Q 7 ♥ Q 10 3 ♦ 8 7 6 ♣ Q 9 7 5 2

♠ A K 10

♦ Q 10 9 2

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What principle operates to make this hand work better with North playing at spades than South playing at No Trumps?

An Arab revolt generally is directed at the individual leader rather than the leader principle, which is hereditary.

CHAPTER XX

Monty swallowed This was all a trifle embarrassing to him

"Why, ah no The fact is sir I had in mind something a bit more—ah, pretentious"

"How?" the clerk a middle-aged man looked quizzically at him

"I say—I say that I need a choice presentation a box no doubt It is for Miss it is for ones ah sweetheart"

"Oh Oh I see! Well sure mister here in the refrigerator case Didn't know what you meant You starting courtin rather late tonight though aint you? What's your name? You live around here? I'm Alex Downey night pharmacist here for 13 years"

"Mr Downey" Monty bowed slightly and extended a hand "I am Archibald Montgomery"

"Glad to know you son" Mr Downey declared pumping Montgom— say! Why of course! You're the professor! That made the big speech"

Downey obviously was a town character a friendly inoffensive busybody with a good heart Somehow Monty warmed to him For one thing he had called Monty "son" Therefore perhaps his 29-year maturity wasn't so old looking after all! Monty took heart In ten minutes they had become good acquaintances and in half an hour they had swapped intimacies like old friends It did Monty a deal of good to unburden himself wholly to some kindly soul

"Well good luck son" Downey said shaking hands and smiling when they parted finally at midnight "You take her that n It's a good five pound box best made You can't be shy at courtin let me tell you You press yo e suit as the feller says"

* *

He grinned at his own joke and Monty laughed happily Monty had a new inner life of comraderie and fellowship He actually whistled as he walked back toward his room he who hadn't whistled in a long time Press his suit eh? Well that was indubitably good advice He'd just go to bed and start at it early tomorrow morning

He slept well—devoid of worry and dreaming because his body was healthy and his mind was clean—and at 6 a m awakened with happiness in his soul! He got up immediately If he were going to start seeing Rosemary Taylor socially the sooner he started the better Her trading post had no telephone Anyway he had some business details to discuss with her—he remembered all at once how he had sort of created business in order to see her more and chuckled to himself If so it so he would just take his car now and drive out there

The drive to her place was 10 miles and the early morning air was tingly cold Monty sang all the songs he could remember in sheer exhilaration

"Down by the o-o-o-old mill
stre-e-e-eam
Where I first met you-u-u-u!"

He was thrilled at his own voice He hadn't done much singing in recent years certainly not of popular songs He realized that most of the ones he could recall were quite old now He would have to develop some snatches at least of—what was it—fishes going over a dam a man with a mandolin with an odd jargon? Interesting commentary on American folk ways um No! He must not be pedantic He must be—human Friendly One of the people who just loved life for its own sake and tried to make it happy

He was alternately lecturing himself and singing when he came in sight of the Summit Trading post No other car was there save for Rosemary's own which she kept parked under a great hovering oak He rolled up near the porch He would just honk and call her out brazenly this early morning as any—ah youth would do She wouldn't want him to be too sedate probably Doubtless he had been too much that way

He heard her come running through the store at the first sound of his horn She threw the door bolt and looked out

"Monty!" she cried "Oh! Oh lordy Monty!"

Her face looked strained

She wore a thin pink dressing gown over blue silken pajamas Her hair was untidy Her sleeves were rolled But Monty's eye somehow took in these details in one glance then centered on her robe's sagging pocket He pointed to it

"Oh I say—whatever are you running around with a pistol for Rosemary?"

She smiled in hurried recollection

"My goodness Monty I forgot! I—I almost shot a stork!"

"I beg pardon?"

"Sure! Come quickly and help can't you? You must! I'm all alone with her and Walpi Tom's squaw Pola, is about to have a papoose!"

Before that day was over Dr Archibald Montgomery was to wish that his doctorate had been earned in the field of medicine instead of the somewhat more theoretical realm of philosophy That he had specialized in obstetrics rather than archaeology

He sat there in his car now however just staring open mouthed at Rosemary He swallowed, hard and echoed her announcement

"Papoose?"

"Yes, Monty! A baby! I heard Pola moaning early this morning and because I thought she had gone with Walpi I tip-toed down and got a gun She was calling for help"

"Ah yes Yes indeed! But where is her husband? Where is Walpi?"

Rosemary shook her head in exasperation

"The Lord only knows! As near as I can make out Monty she said that Indian men feel they must have little or nothing to do with—with storks and all and he knew a baby was coming so he went off to celebrate Just wait till he comes back—I bet I have a thing or two to tell him!"

Monty had to smile at that It was amusing to see Rosemary angry

"For goodness sake, Monty don't sit there like a dope! I need help I couldn't even go for a doctor or anything because Pola was so frantic She wouldn't let me leave her And no customer has come yet, it's so early"

* * *

Monty left the car and entered the store with a definite sense of embarrassment Whatever could he—a man—do? And still he had promised himself not to be backward any more around Rosemary

"You needn't blush, Monty" she chided him now "What I need is help Brains I mean You're awfully smart, a Ph D and all Do you know I mean well what is the exact procedure when ?" She looked up earnestly at him excitement showing in her lovely eyes

Monty just swallowed again as he always did in moments of stress

'Never Dreamed I'd Feel So Good Again.' Thanks Vendol

Mansfield Veteran of Foreign Wars Was Miserable from Gas, Sour Stomach, Dizziness, Spots Before Eyes, and Headaches, Due To Constipation. Tells of Relief.

"Vendol has been a blessing to me," says Mr Clarence Marmet of 308 Wayne street Mansfield an enameler by trade "Before taking it I was constipated all the time and my other sufferings due to it became so bad I thought I couldn't find relief After eating I felt distressed with sour stomach acid risings heartburn cramps and the gas was so bad sometimes I could hardly get my breath At other times I felt so dizzy everything seemed to be going around and little spots danced before my eyes and my head would ache

"From the relief I got by taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets you might think they were made especially for me They gave the nicest easiest most complete bowel actions and soon all those awful feelings passed off Really I never dreamed I could feel so well again and give all credit to Vendol and advise anyone suffering like I did to get some without delay"

As the good news of remarkable relief brought by Vendol is made public by well known men and women residing right here at home the demand for this famous medicine grows all over this city and nearby vicinity Vendol acts to relieve many outward symptoms when brought on by constipation or need for a mild kidney diuretic and some of the very best citizens are taking it When a lot of people take Vendol and like it you can pretty well count on it that you will like it too This has been going on a long time so why not start taking Vendol today and see for yourself just what it will do

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists here and is especially recommended by Central Drug store, corner Main and 4th streets
